F. J. Martens, British and Foreign Bible Society representative, was preparing today to distribute 50 copies of the Revised Standard Version of the Holy Bible to city clergymen. The recently-completed revision, the second in the 341 years since the publication of the King James version, was authorized in 1930 by the International Council of Religious Education on behalf of 40 Protestant denominations. Thirty-two scholars have been employed in eliminating more than 5,000 mistakes, which were made in translating from the Greek text. The new Bible will not be available for general sale until after Sept. 30. (Times Photo.)

SACRIFICE TO PRUDERY

Once a Girl, Scot Doctor to Wed Soon

ALFORD, Aberdeenshire, Sept. 24—Dr. Ewan Forbes-Semphill, of fabled "sister" of Lord Semphill until a few days ago, is in love and wants to marry. Soon he will announce his engagement to an Aberdeenshire woman. The former "Dr. Elizabeth" has already revealed to the world that she is now a man and wishes to be known as such—in fact, as "Dr. Ewan Forbes-Semphill."

"I don't know when the marriage will take place," he said. "But it is quite clear we cannot be married at once. It would be like marriage following too soon on birth. Somehow it doesn't seem right. That is why everything has now come to a head, changing my name and so forth." Dr. Forbes-Semphill was speaking in his trim surgery at Alford just before his patients were due to arrive. "I am happy to speak to you freely and to give you the full details. Naturally, I am looking forward to my marriage very much. For very special reasons I can't give you my future wife's name."

Dr. Forbes-Semphill is not the least bit embarrassed or sensitive about the fuss which his change of name—and of sex—has caused throughout the world. With complete candor Dr. Forbes-Semphill told his extraordinary story.

"It has been a ghastly mistake. I was carelessly registered as a girl in the first place, but, of course, that was 40 years ago. I am sure I was more masculine than feminine, right from the start. And this is what I've had to fight against all these years—till now. The doctors in those days were mistaken, too. I have been sacrificed to prudery and the horror which our parents had about sex. I was sacrificed to fear—what would the neighbors think? My mother insisted from the start that I was a complete girl and dressed me in skirts. It was bad enough living up here in Aberdeenshire as a child, but when I got older it was hell—especially when I was forced to attend the debutantes ball during my first London season. I got out of that lot as soon as I could. I had both boy and girl friends as a child, but, as I say, as I grew older things became more difficult.

Dr. Forbes-Semphill revealed that he had had no operation. "None was needed," he said. But recently he had undergone male hormone treatment. "I had begun to shave quite often," he added, "and the change in myself became more marked recently. Of course, I could have made a fight against all these years ago, but did not do so because I considered other people's feelings. It was a big mistake that all that occurred. I must look to the future, to my new life."

NAVY SHIFTS WEST COAST'S TOP OFFICERS

Hibbard Succeeds As Creery Elevated

Shifts of top personnel in the Royal Canadian Navy's Pacific Command, announced today in Ottawa, will see three well-known senior officers moved from this coast:

1. Rear Admiral Wallace B. Creery, flag officer, Pacific Command, will go to Ottawa as vice-chief of naval staff.
2. Commodore Kenneth F. Adams, commodore of barracks, H.M.C.S. Naden, will become commanding officer naval (reserve) divisions with headquarters in Toronto.
3. Capt. E. P. Tisdall, commanding officer, H.M.C.S. Ontario, will go to Halifax as commander of the naval barracks and depot there.

Admiral Creery, who has been Pacific Coast flag officer since August, 1950, will be succeeded by Rear Admiral James C. Hibbard, D.S.C. and Bar, now chief of naval personnel at naval headquarters, Ottawa.

Capt. Kenneth Dyer, D.S.C., commanding officer of the aircraft carrier Magnificent, which won two commendations for its work during "Operation Mainbrace," will take over command of R.C.N. barracks and depot at Esquimalt, and will be on the staff of the flag officer.

H.M.C.S. Ontario will be commanded by Capt. Duncan L. Raymond, who is now commanding officer of H.M.C.S. Shearwater, the naval air establishment at Dartmouth.

The changes, described by the Department of National Defense as "routine," were sparked by the appointment of Rear Admiral Harry G. DeWolf, now vice-chief of staff, as chairman of the Canadian joint staff in Ottawa.

H.M.C.S. Magnificent will be under command of Commodore H. S. Rayner, now secretary of the chiefs of staff committee at national defense headquarters.

Commodore Hugh P. L. O.B.E., will be chief of naval personnel, and Capt. Anthony Storrs, D.S.C., commander of H.M.C.S. Shearwater.

The new appointments will become effective late this year.

Joe Walcott 'Unretired,' Seeks Rematch

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24 (AP)—Jersey Joe Walcott "unretired" today 14 hours after losing his heavyweight boxing championship and announcing he was quitting the ring.

In prepared statements, Walcott and manager Felix Boccichio said they will go through with the contract for a rematch with Rocky Marciano, who won the title from Walcott Tuesday night on a dramatic kayo in the 13th round.

"We won't quibble about the 90-day clause," said Boccichio, "but it says in the contract the fight can be held only at a location where both fighters and their managers are licensed."

Tuesday night's fight was held here, for one reason because Boccichio is not licensed in New York State.

Al Weill, manager of Marciano, told reporters that he too is willing to go through with the return bout agreement, but does not want the fight until after the first of the year.

POLIO STRIKES FOURTH FATAL BLOW TO FAMILY

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 24 (AP)—Polio has struck the Leo Linnemanstons family its fourth fatal blow in nine days. Barbara, 13, died Tuesday night.

Ten days ago, the Linnemanstons took a drive in the country with seven of their eight children who lived at home. They were looking forward to the time when their eldest, John, a 20-year-old marine, could join them.

The next day, Sunday, 16-year-old Paul was stricken with bulbar polio. He died Monday, the day his sister, Lorraine, four, became ill. Lorraine died Tuesday. Mary Ann was stricken Thursday, the day of Paul and Lorraine's double funeral.

After Mary Ann died Saturday night, the grieving father said: "A person has to be afraid to wake up in the morning."

Sunday morning Barbara, 13, awakened with the headache and stiff neck which had announced bulbar polio three times before. She died 12 hours after Mary Ann's funeral.

Mr. Kaul told Canadian Press in Regina the major objectives of the average Canadian include a $2,000 car, a $10,000 house, and the opportunity to visit the United States every now and then. Canadians seem happy and have a high standard of living. There were no steep graduations of income. Most of the population had limited aims, largely concerning material things like cars, houses and comfortable motels to live in while traveling. Their whole country was "overshadowed by the United States."

The parliamentary group will be in Victoria until Thursday evening.

Four Dead in Elevator Blast at Port Arthur

25 Others Injured; Appeal for Blood

From UP and CP Dispatches

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Sept. 24 — Four men were killed and 25 others injured today when a terminal grain elevator exploded and caught fire.

One of the dead men was a watchman on board the freighter Ss. Bayton that was being loaded at the dock when the blast ripped the roof from the building.

The other two men were elevator workers who were blown from the dock onto the boat. One body was recovered soon after the explosion.

The dead men were not immediately identified.

General Hospital authorities reported that 25 persons were injured, and they appealed to Winnipeg for blood and plasma. It was sending 1,000 pounds of blood plasma by plane.

Eleven persons were treated at the hospital within a few minutes after the blast.

RESEMBLED BOMB — Waterfront workers compared the explosion to a bomb blast.

It ripped the roof off the work shop connecting the main section of the 8,000,000-bushel terminal with an annex.

Fire followed the explosion and all lakehead firefighting equipment was rushed to the scene.

A Saskatchewan pool terminal on the same site was destroyed by an explosion and fire in 1945 with the loss of 23 lives. In the rebuilt plant, special anti-dust equipment was installed to guard against a possible blast from spontaneous combustion.

A state of emergency was declared at all lakehead hospitals to care for the injured.

FOUR SOCREDS ARRIVE FOR SWEARING IN

Early Election Rumor Dampened

By GORDON FORBES

Speculation that the provincial government has decided against seeking a November general election heightened today as four Social Credit M.L.A.s arrived in the capital to be sworn into office.

Some political observers attached no significance to the occurrence, but others contended the quartet wouldn't have bothered traveling to the city to be sworn in if they were facing another general election soon.

They met with Premier W. A. C. Bennett after the swearing-in ceremony performed by E. K. DeBeck, clerk of the Legislature. The four members are Thomas J. Irwin, Delta; Bert Price, Vancouver-Burrard; Rev. Harry Francis, Similkameen, and R. O. Newton, Columbia.

They are the first of the members elected in the June 12 election to be sworn into office.

Meanwhile, there is a growing feeling in political circles, that Premier Bennett will not call a general election this year.

It is known several top Socreds are opposed to an early election on the grounds that the voters may feel the government is doing it for frivolous political purposes, and not concentrating enough on getting on with the business of the province.

Others feel the sooner the election is called the better would be the chances of a Socred sweep in view of the unorganized position of the old-line parties. By next year this faction argues, all parties will be fully organized again and the Socreds will have a tougher election battle.

But severe weather conditions, expected soon in some parts of the province, make carrying out of a general election a difficult prospect.

It usually takes 63 days to call an election. This would mean a late November or early December election, and counting would continue over Christmas—a practically unheard of situation.

French Sub Missing With 48 Aboard

PARIS, Sept. 24 (Reuters)—The whole French Mediterranean fleet based at Toulon was mobilized tonight to search for the submarine Le Sibylle missing off the French coast with 48 men on board.

The Sibylle, a former British submarine, was last in radio contact this morning, and the navy announced here tonight it was "seriously worried" about the submarine's fate.

She failed to surface after a diving exercise shortly before mid-day.

Ships and aircraft are searching the coastal area, the announcement said.

La Sibylle is a 715-ton vessel, with a normal complement of 44. She is the former British sub Sportsman, one of several loaned to France for training purposes.

RED FEATHER DRIVE

$195,000 Minimum For Victoria Appeal

Only five days from now, on September 29 at 7 p.m., an army of Red Feather volunteer workers will call at Greater Victoria's front door in an effort to collect $195,000.

This sum is the bare minimum required by 17 local welfare agencies sharing in the dollar drive to carry on their work for the coming year.

Slogan of the campaign is "Your Package Meets Their Need."

"Packages" will be explained to householders when the volunteer workers call. They will show just what can be done with contributions of $2, $5, $6, $10, $12, $25 and $50.

The most important part of the campaign now is having enough collectors," said Ralph B. Mathews, co-chairman of the campaign with John A. Craig. "We are aiming at 4,000, and response has been excellent, but if we have more we can put them to work."

There are 26,000 homes to be visited between Sidney and Jordan River, he said. And he asked that anyone who had taken part in previous drives offer their services by calling B 5121.

The area has been divided into 14 districts, each with a quota, and the campaign will continue to Oct. 5.

View Royal will be the area to beat. Last year it oversubscribed its quota even though the drive as a whole was thousands of dollars short of its objective.

Organized labor is taking part in the drive for the first time as a group.

In previous years the Trades and Labor Council, representing close to 60 A.F.L.-T.L.C. unions in the district, sent its workers to the general pool to be assigned where directors wished.

Mrs. Jean Jones, the council's Red Feather representative, said that this year the council will take the responsibility of covering a district.

"We know how workers are needed, though, and hope to be able to help other districts besides looking after our own," Mrs. Jones said today.

The essence of the campaign is contained in the following letter received today by the Times, directed to Esquimalt residents:

"The Red Feather service of Greater Victoria, by collecting $195,000, will assist materially 17 community organizations. Esquimalt's quota is $10,000.

"The urgent need is for workers, many of them; so that the burden of collecting may not fall on the shoulders of a few."

"If you are able to visit a few houses, give your name to the Lions Club of Esquimalt or Commander A. C. Wurtele. May I ask all residents of Esquimalt to welcome the workers at their door, and contribute generously to a very worthy cause. (signed) Alfred C. Wurtele, Reeve."

Robert House Sale Approved By Harrison

Appraisals Close To Purchase Price

By AILEEN CAMPBELL

The by-law to sell Prince Robert House for $42,000 will get final passage at City Council meeting Thursday.

At a special meeting today aldermen unanimously gave first, second and third readings, after learning independent appraisers valued the property at $43,500 and $41,425.

Uneasy peace reigned at City Hall in the meantime.

The special meeting, over in a matter of minutes, came as a quiet anti-climax to the violent civic brannigan of the past few days.

STILL GRUMBLES — While it disposed of Prince Robert House for $42,000, the meeting did not stem the tide of dissatisfaction at Mayor Claude Harrison and his methods, in some aldermanic quarters.

Corridors still hum with protests in addition to the public statements already issued.

Big round in the main bout is expected at a regular City Council meeting Thursday, when Ald. Waldo Skillings will formally challenge the mayor to resign his seat and test public feeling in the December civic election.

Once the papers for sale of Robert House are signed a Victoria syndicate buying it will be able to start demolition of the main building. Purchasers are Charles Dale, William Creed, Clyde Ballantyne and Donovan Dale.

"I said I would sign the papers if the procedure was safe," said the mayor today.

"The procedure is now safe. My action was taken simply to get things in order. If the majority want to sell, it is alright with me."

On advice of H. W. Davey, Q.C., outside legal counsel, the building was appraised by two firms.

Ker & Stephenson valued building and site at $43,500; Rithet Consolidated Ltd. $41,425.

"What was the cost of appraisal?" queried Ald. Don Smith.

"The answer was immediately forthcoming but it was learned later the appraisals cost $62.75 and $59.63."

The mayor halted proceedings a week ago when he stated he would "sign no papers" for the sale unless he was assured proceedings were completely legal.

The by-law now he said is completely in order.

It will be a week Thursday since "the present civic fracas began."

At a finance meeting Ald. Skillings aggravated by the mayor's "attitude" toward the city manager, charged the chief magistrate was a "38 per cent mayor."

He challenged the mayor to resign and said he would do likewise and contest the mayoralty. The mayor declined to enter the ensuing civic melee, stating the outburst was "a lot of childish nonsense."

Since then, however, he stated he has no intention of resigning and may reverse his original plans to serve only one term, by seeking re-election in 1953.

SEN. RICHARD NIXON ... may be relieved.

Nixon Speech 'Life' Saver

Republican Chairman Sees Senator Remaining Vice-President Choice

CLEVELAND, Sept. 24 (AP) — Republican National Chairman Arthur Summerfield said today, "I am certain that Senator Richard Nixon will remain the Republican candidate for vice-president."

Summerfield made this statement in reply to a reporter's question at a press conference.

He said he had talked with both General Eisenhower, the party's presidential candidate, and Nixon by telephone this morning.

Nixon, he said, will meet with Gen. Eisenhower at Wheeling, W.Va., tonight.

The face-to-face conference seemed almost certain to insure Nixon's retention on the Republican ticket.

The final say on whether Nixon is to remain as vice-presidential candidate remains with the Republican National Committee.

Summerfield said he has asked the committee members for their opinions on the case.

Already, he said, at Washington Republican headquarters 20,000 telegrams were received by this morning, almost all in favor of retaining Nixon.

The telegrams still are pouring in at the Western Union capacity rate of 1,500 to 2,000 an hour, he said.

Eisenhower has also hinted that he is prepared to keep Nixon as his running mate.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 24 (AP) — Senator Richard M. Nixon carried his fight for political life to a country-wide audience Tuesday night, and then moved on to Montana today before a decisive meeting with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The young Republican vice-presidential nominee rested his fate in an unprecedented TV-radio appeal to the United States public. He left the question of his removal from the Republican ticket up to the party's national committee.

The main Los Angeles Western Union office reported handling 5,000 telegrams regarding Nixon within four hours after his speech. The N.B.C. switchboard in Hollywood was jammed for 2½ hours.

Nixon gave details of his own financial status and challenged his Democratic opponents, Governor Adlai Stevenson and Senator John J. Sparkman, do likewise. He hit Stevenson's reported fund for Illinois officials and Sparkman's employment of his wife.

Senators receive $50,000 annually for office and operational expenses over and above a $15,000 salary. Nixon did not give a breakdown of his $50,000 allowance.

He did not give the breakdown of expenditures of the controversial $18,235 fund in his talk. But he released an audit report from Price Waterhouse & Co., accountants, showing:

Total disbursement of $18,168.77, of which $5,102.15 went to Nixon directly, $12,876.72 to persons other than Nixon, from Nov. 15, 1950, to Aug. 20, 1952. The balance remaining was given as $66.13.

ON THE TIMES

By ART STOTT

They talk about the new professional theatre group planning to open a season's run here and I keep thinking of Mildred Page. It isn't that long ago, but trying to remember is like peering through a haze brightened at points by gaslight.

If you rifle through the newspaper files, you'll see notices of Mildred Page playing at the Princess Theatre in 1912, but you don't have to go back that far. It seems only a short time before the Playhouse became the Plaza that she was busy with her stock company on its stage.

There probably aren't many Victorians who remember the names of the plays the group produced. It may be hard for the old theatre-goers to recollect even an outstanding incident or two in those presentations.

Just the same you remember Mildred Page and the institution she became in hundreds of local households. Going to the Playhouse used to be a family affair. Ma put on her bonnet and Pa trimmed his moustache and away you went to the show. Maybe you recall the times when the drama was mellow and you, as a kid, were scared out of your seat by the sudden blast of a stage revolver. That used to start the babies crying, and it was pretty frightening to even the hard cases of seven or eight who'd just settled down to a doze.

Over the months you began to take Mildred Page as a part of life. If most of the family missed the play one week, the one who had been would rebroadcast it to the kitchen family circle on a wintry, shut-in Saturday night. The rebroadcast wasn't so good. There were too many interjections: "Oh, but before that, Mildred said..." and you didn't quite get the stage atmosphere. But the company had moved in on the family and the family had to be kept posted.

'Moom-Pitcher' Competition

Still, there were advantages to the rebroadcast. If you were a kid, you could follow the legitimate theatre that way and then trudge down to the Pantages with your Saturday 10 cents and see the next instalment of "The Iron Claw" or "The Man-in-the-Iron Mask."

To a kid, Pearl White, who seems to be mixed up in my mind with iron masks and iron claws, had certain advantages over Mildred Page. Pearl used to cling to the edge of a cliff more often, lie strapped to the rails in front of a speeding train more frequently, than Mildred ever did. In fact Pearl was on the brink of death weekly—just before the reel ended and you were urged to come back for the next instalment.

There were other attractions at the Pantages you couldn't find at the Playhouse. The Pantages had the swiftest drop screen. After you'd made your program into a dart—we called 'em air-planes in those days—and launched it from "the gods" to zoom down on the main floor trash, you could play "I Spy" on the curtain. If you happened to see a picture of that curtain recently, you could close your eyes and hear juvenile voices in ghostly converse—"I spy with my little eye, a word beginning with 'S'."

Yep. The Pantages used to give you lots of entertainment—acrobats and jugglers, too.

Only somehow the people on the stage at the Pantages didn't belong the way Mildred Page did. You never thought of them as your friends. You didn't bother telling Pantages stories around the kitchen on Saturday night for the benefit of those who hadn't been. Sometimes you might string off a line you'd heard from a song and patter man in a vaudeville turn, but it wasn't homey.

Dear to the Mem'ry

If you're old enough and have been here a fair length of time, you think back fondly of Mildred Page and some of the other stock companies—Lee Jackson's among them. And you wonder if the new group will move in on the Victoria family the way the earlier versions did.

Probably it won't. Probably it wouldn't want to. This is a different day and age. Victoria's more of a town now, less a community of households which knew each other.

But if you're wishing the new venture success, you'll hope that it will be given some of that sense of belonging which Mildred Page and the like created among folks here. It was a chummy relationship that must have counted quite a lot to the performers.

'MORE THAN SLIGHTLY STUPID'

'Born Yesterday' Star Denies Red Sympathies

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24 (UP).—Judy Holliday, moviedom's famous "dumb blonde," has told senate investigators she was "more than slightly stupid" about Communist-front organizations, it was disclosed today.

In a secret hearing last March, the talented actress said she was so upset about finding herself called a "Red" in newspapers she hired investigators to investigate herself because "I wanted to know what I had done."

For Judy, it was a command performance of the "dumb blonde" role that won her the academy award in the movie "Born Yesterday." But this time she played it in dead earnest.

She admitted she had unwittingly contributed to some subversive organizations that seemed to be aiding "hard-luck" causes.

"When I was solicited I always simply said, 'oh, isn't that too bad. Sure, use my name,'" she told the subcommittee.

She said she didn't suspect the organizations were subversive and never checked up on them at the time.

Her self-investigation brought shocking revelations, she said. "I have had my eyes opened like they have never been opened in the last year."

"Now I read the papers," she said. "At that time I was interested in the theatre news and auction notices and puzzles."

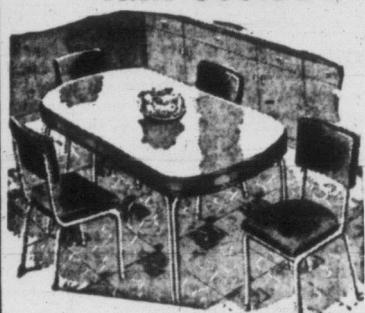

Miss Holliday also testified she had signed petitions or contributed money to a number of causes the committee said were Communist-inspired.

"When they appealed emotionally as being just, as being democratic, or being a protest against something that was not democratic, I said yes," she testified. "I don't say 'yes' to anything now except cancer, polio, cerebral palsy and things like that."

ELECTION SOON?

McNair Defeat Spurs Liberals

General Election Now Felt Possible After Party's Stunning New Brunswick Upset

By NORMAN M. MACLEOD

OTTAWA, Sept. 24 (BUP).—After 24 hours of reflection, Parliament Hill circles were broadly of the opinion today that the New Brunswick voting has so changed the national political climate that a federal general election now is possible on shortest notice.

Few party sources believed that the election will come this year. But equally few believed that it now will be as late as the autumn 1953 date which Prime Minister St. Laurent favored during his recent goodwill tour to the Pacific Coast.

The prevailing opinion was that the government will go to the country some time next spring, in advance of the coronation.

The importance federal political circles attached to the New Brunswick result arose largely from the unexpectedness of the defeat of Premier John B. McNair's government. Its return by a moderately reduced majority had been anticipated as one of the routine political developments of the year.

Its failure to happen, consequently, was received as a development of major significance. Its first obvious result was to bring to an end the Liberal practice

Not Organized on National Basis

None of these parties at the moment is organized effectively on a national basis. The P.C.'s come closest to having a national organization, but there are serious gaps in their party machinery in Quebec, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. The Socreds are organized in Alberta and British Columbia, but are mushrooming in other provinces. The C.C.F., like the P.C.'s, have the skeleton of a national organization, but with little real meat on it in several provinces.

The general unpreparedness of the opposition parties is an invitation to the government forces to speed up the election and attempt the tactics of "divide and conquer."

The other reason hastening the election date was the coronation. The government recognizes that the representative character of the Canadian delegation to that important occasion should not be open to question. An expression of political opinion from the electors before the ceremony was held desirable and appropriate.

A further but more political reason was the government's belief that French-speaking Canada would naturally prefer to have one of its own race head the delegation. That consideration would operate as a strong factor, government sources believed, in holding the French-Canadian seats firm in their Liberal allegiance.

Two features of the McNair government's defeat were especially unpalatable to federal Liberals. For one thing, the government had been in power 17 years. That's exactly the length of time the federal Liberal government has been in office since the late Mackenzie King led it from opposition to victory in 1935.

JUST TRY THIS IN YOUR COFFEE CUP when you're "draggy" and "ALL WASHED UP"

Do you often feel under par—slowed down by listless, sluggish feelings? Accumulated body wastes can bring on these symptoms. They're often a sign that your body needs the kind of help Kruschen Salts can give in promoting the healthy action of the intestines, where food is digested, and the kidneys. You see, Kruschen is not simply a gentle but effective laxative—it is also a diuretic, which means it has the property of aiding the kidneys, too, in their job of getting rid of waste matter. Thus this easy-to-take remedy works not only promptly, but thoroughly. Just try a little Kruschen in your morning beverage when needed. See how quickly you begin to feel better all day—every day!

Officer Identifies Suchan as Killer of Partner

TORONTO, Sept. 24 (BUP).—Police Sergeant Roy Perry identified Steve Suchan today as the man who fired the bullets that killed his partner, Detective Sergeant Edmund Tong.

Perry also identified Leonard Jackson as the passenger in the car which Suchan was driving.

The shooting of Tong on March 6 started two nationwide man-hunts that snared the notorious Edwin Boyd gang. Suchan and Jackson are charged with murder. Boyd previously pleaded guilty to charges ranging from jail breaking to bank robbery.

The Toronto detective, telling his own story of the shooting, said he and Tong saw a suspicious car at the intersection of College and Lansdowne Streets and as they passed it Tong called out:

"Pull over to the curb boys." As Tong got out of the cruiser and walked toward the car on the driver's side, Perry said, the door on the driver's side opened and he heard a report.

FELL TO ROAD

He said, "Tong made a half turn and fell to the roadway."

Then Perry said he saw another flash of fire from the driver of the car and a bullet hole appeared in the windshield of the police car.

He said, "I opened the door of the cruiser and tried to get out, and as I was doing so I could see the driver of the other car raising his arm, so I lifted my right arm to protect my head."

There was another flash of fire. As the gun went off I could see the man who was the passenger. He had left the car and was standing on the curb side. He also had a revolver or pistol in his hand and there was a flash of fire from it." He said he walked along the length of the lineup and back again and asked the 12 men he turned so he could see the left side of their faces before he identified number 3 as the driver and number 12 as the passenger.

"Do you see those men now?" Gibson asked.

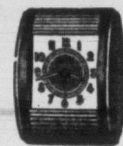

"Yes," Perry said. "The driver is the accused on my left and the passenger is the accused on my right."

the detective's testimony Suchan watched him intently. Jackson stared at the floor, as he has done almost since the trial started.

AMBUSH—Communist guerrillas ambushed a small South Korean air force convoy about 10 miles north of Pusan last night. They killed three Korean soldiers, wounded one and apparently kidnapped two officers.

FIRST—Sixty-two R.C.A.F. Sabre jet fighters will fly the Atlantic to their new base near Metz, eastern France, at the end of this month. R.C.A.F. provincial headquarters in Paris announced today.

Air Commodore Keith Hodson of London, Ont., said the Canadian-built Sabres, marking Canada's first contribution to North Atlantic Treaty Organization air forces based in continental Europe, will be stationed at Gros-Tenquin, near Metz.

The base is the first of a series of four. A second will be established at Zweibrücken, Germany. Other sites are unannounced.

RARE—In Quebec City Laval University today displayed a collection of rare Spanish books as part of its centenary celebrations. Monsignor Ferdinand Vandy, rector of Laval, and who accepted the exhibition Friday night from Spain's consul-general in Canada, Germain Barabier, said Canada and America could not ignore Spanish culture.

"South America, in particular, had a debt of honor towards Spain which was similar to that of French Canada towards France," he said.

Replying, Barabier said the gift had been prepared with great difficulty while Spain was being "isolated."

GUARDED—In Halifax, Stanley Woodward, United States ambassador to Canada, told the Canadian Club that there was no justification for hopes that Russia's threat to the free world had diminished. Woodward, in an address delivered Tuesday night as the highlight of his first visit to the Maritimes, said the North Atlantic Treaty countries could not rest on their laurels.

"I have just returned from a first hand look at Europe," he said, "and the threat of Russian aggression still looms as the possible ruin of all the N.A.T.O. alliance so far has achieved. "For myself, I find no grounds for the belief that the Soviet threat is diminishing. We shouldn't be fooled by Soviet peace offensive propaganda, calculated to lower our guard."

RESCUE—A Vancouver woman was taken to hospital suffering severe shock Tuesday night after she rescued her 10-month-old daughter from their flaming home.

Mrs. John Elgood was returning home from shopping when she noticed the flames. Racing into the inferno, she grabbed the infant, Dorothy, and fled. Explosions, presumably from a gas stove, rocked the frame building as Mrs. Elgood made her escape.

Her condition was described today as good. Firemen put the flames out in 13 minutes, but the building that burned like a matchbox was gutted.

COST—The Chinese Communists apparently are making experimental changes in their Mig-15 jets, and it is costing them pilots in combat.

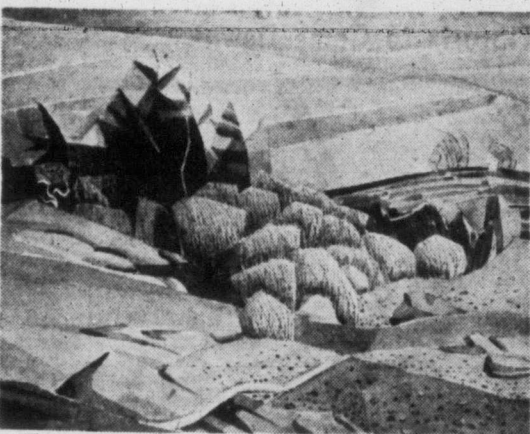

Some Migs recently have shown a tendency to go into a spin during violent manoeuvres in aerial dogfights with Allied Sabre jets.

Whatever changes have been made, the Reds must have altered the centre of gravity of the planes, Col. Harrison Thyng, commander of the United States Fourth Fighter Interceptor Wing.

When the Migs have gone into a spin, Thyng said in an interview Tuesday, the Red pilots have begun firing all their guns in an apparent attempt to expend ammunition and lighten the nose.

Five Red planes were reported downed in the last month without Sabre pilots firing a shot. Other Migs have been downed when Sabre pilots caught them coming out of a spin.

Whatever change has been made it is not apparent on the surface, Thyng added. He said it could be some change in guns.

Water Color Wins Approval

An anonymous donor has purchased this water-color painting by local artist W. D. West, and has turned it over to the Victoria Arts Centre to be added to the permanent collection. The painting depicts Mr. West's impression of a scene at Ten Mile Point. It was entered as one of many paintings in the Third Jury Show, which opened at the centre Tuesday evening. Mr. West, a native of New Westminster, is a 1950 graduate of the Vancouver School of Art. He is art teacher at Central Junior High School. (Times Photo.)

JUSTIFICATION FOR PRIDE

Victoria's Artists Show Achievements

BY AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

Victoria has every right to be proud of its artists. They are many, highly competent and industrious. For the next three weeks visitors to the Arts Centre on Moss-Street will be able to see for themselves something of the calibre of work being done.

The Third Jury Show of Vancouver Island artists was declared open Tuesday night, by the Hon. Nancy Hodges. Mrs. Hodges spoke briefly, praising the value of the Arts Centre and referring to the difficult selective task of the jury, which had consisted of Ina D. D. Uthoff, Colin Graham and W. P. Weston, noted British Columbia artist.

Mr. Weston, speaking on behalf of the jury, urged artists whose work had been rejected, not to be disturbed by the fact, but to continue painting for the joy of it. "Paint the things you want to paint and don't follow the crowd," he exhorted.

The speakers were introduced by the president of the Arts Centre, Ronald Grant. Mr. Grant announced that although no prizes would be given, as in the recent non-jury show, the Centre hoped to purchase at least one of the paintings on show to add to its permanent collection.

In this connection, he also announced that a striking water color impression of Ten Mile Point by a young artist, W. D. West, has been purchased and presented to the gallery's collection by an anonymous donor.

The West water color claimed a large share of attention during the evening. It is a finely organized piece of work, embodying a simple tonal range with expressionistic treatment of planes and natural forms.

Some admirable examples of portraiture come from the brushes of Myfanwy Spencer Pavelic and Ina D. D. Uthoff. Mrs. Uthoff's "Chinaman" is arresting, not only for its brilliant craftsmanship, but in character and mood. Two delightful canvasses by Mrs. Pavelic, "Rosemary" and "My Grandmother," reveal the confident, sensitive and perceptive artist.

Regular visitors to the gallery will find familiar names among the exhibitors—Constance Bonner, Hilda Clyde, Gladys K. Christian Huygens (Huygens), 17th century Dutch mathematician, was one of the first experimenters with the internal combustion engine. He used gunpowder for fuel.

'Death by Boat' Trial Underway

Defendant in Stewart Lake Slaying Says He Does Not Remember Man's Death

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C., Sept. 24 (CP)—A 34-year-old man testified in Assize Court Tuesday night that he had no recollection of the death of a man he is accused of murdering on Stewart Lake Aug. 22.

The testimony of Francis Peter Dennis, accused of murdering William Austin, followed testimony from the dead man's son and wife that he had beaten him then ran over him with his motor boat.

"I never kill William Austin," Dennis testified before Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson. "I never remember that I kill Austin."

He told how he and two friends, Michele and Catherine Morris, had consumed a quantity of beer at his Pinchi Bay home on Stewart Lake and how Austin came and started a fracas.

He said he pushed Austin out of his house and toward Austin's boat.

"He took hold of my hair. My head was hit sideways. The next thing I remember I am by my steps."

Dennis said he knew nothing of Austin's death until the following evening when a woman told him. He was arrested in church later.

The Morris testified that Dennis and Austin fought after Austin, his wife and his 14-year-old son Alfred arrived at his house. After the fight the Austin's had boarded a boat and Dennis had followed in his boat.

Mrs. Austin testified Dennis caught up with them, dragged Austin out of his boat by his hair and said: "I'm going to kill you."

She said her son tried to drive Dennis off with a pike pole but the boats drifted too far apart.

GEN. CLARK IN KOREA FOR TALKS

Fanatical Reds Halt U.N. Drive

SEOUL, Korea, Sept. 24 (UP)—Fanatical Chinese Communists battered back a tank-supported United Nations attack on Kelly Hill today but paid a heavy price in more than seven hours of bloody fighting.

The abortive assault on Kelly Hill was preceded by the heaviest Allied artillery and mortar barrage on the western front in seven months.

"Ammunition is cheaper to make than men," one officer tersely told United Press correspondent Warren Franklin, who reported the western front action.

U.N. soldiers, backed by tank fire, launched the attack at dawn after a diversionary attack to the northeast. An hour later Franklin said a "handful of men" were on the crest, fighting against overwhelming odds to rout the Chinese Reds from their bunkers and trenches.

But the Reds were too strongly entrenched. The U.N. fighting men were forced to pull back the attack. Even then, they took a toll of the Communist defenders as they fought their way slowly down the slope.

In Seoul General Mark Clark, today with his top land, sea and U.N. Far East commander, met air commanders, but declined to reveal the reason for the high-level conferences.

A Red Face in Ottawa

THE EDITORIAL FACE OF THE Ottawa Journal, we imagine, is wearing a brilliant hue of red at the moment. It will doubtless regret a recent rather childish personal attack on Mr. St. Laurent.

When the prime minister set out on his tour from Quebec to the Pacific Coast, The Journal, a stout Conservative organ, could hardly contain its anger at the spectacle of Mr. St. Laurent's warm reception everywhere. It accused him of "kissing babies, greeting little boys on their birthdays, making speeches that are soothing and nice," when he should have been in Ottawa managing the government of Canada. "His soothing speeches and his 'charm' hardly accord," said The Journal, "with the real demands from the prime minister at this time."

If Mr. St. Laurent is subject of any criticism in this matter it is that he has stayed in Ottawa too much and seen too little of the country. He has chained himself too closely to his desk and did not visit the far west between 1949 and this September.

It is natural, when his tour becomes a personal triumph, that the Conservative Party and its Ottawa spokesman should be alarmed and angry. This is indeed a dismal overture to the Conservative campaign of 1953. And when Mr. St. Laurent announced in Vancouver that he had decided to remain in politics and fight the next election the Conservative party knew that it had suffered a grave, perhaps a lethal blow. It is understandably disappointed but The Journal did not have to proclaim its mortification by sobbing in public.

Curiously enough, at the very moment when The Journal was denouncing Mr. St. Laurent for touring the country, Mr. George Drew, the Conservative leader, announced that he would follow the prime minister's footsteps out west. Quite rightly, Mr. Drew is coming out here soon to cultivate the electors. No one can blame him for that and British Columbia will be happy to welcome him. But one wonders whether The Journal will condemn him for turning on his charm.

Speaking too soon, The Journal did not realize that Mr. St. Lau-rent's tour was far more than a personal triumph, that it was filled with serious business. Probably no prime minister has ever made more important announcements of policy in a single tour than Mr. St. Laurent made in the course of his recent journey.

He announced his own decision to lead the government in the next election, this being of itself a vital piece of news which has gravely shaken the opposition. In a speech at Portage he clearly outlined the international trade policy which the government proposes to follow in the difficult period now ahead. At Victoria he revealed the government's decision to negotiate a fair trade agreement with Japan and welcome Japanese imports—Canada being thus the first nation in the western world to face this controversial issue. He also outlined the government's policy of maintaining reasonable measures of economic aid to Asia, and, in almost every speech, he sought to educate the people in the necessity of Canada's support of the North Atlantic Treaty defense agreement.

Finally, at Winnipeg, Mr. St. Laurent announced that the government had decided to call a halt to the continuing increase in the national budget by postponing such expensive new social services as health insurance.

That is a large budget of news, a very candid communication between the government and the people, who have been separated too much in the last few years. Most Canadians will hope that their prime minister, whoever he may be, will always keep in close touch with them, not only by parliamentary speeches but by personal visits throughout the country.

Only the Conservative party will complain if, in the course of such travels, Mr. St. Laurent makes troops of friends and leaves a trail of golden opinions. The Conservative party only hopes that Mr. Drew, in some measure, may do the same. Everybody will hope at least that Mr. Drew, after several years of incoherence and confusion in the field of high policy, will be able to tell the people clearly at last what course he proposes to follow. Certainly they don't know yet.

Another Liberal Reverse

IN NEW BRUNSWICK ANOTHER Liberal administration has been rebuffed by the voters in a way to stimulate serious thought among that party's adherents throughout Canada. The maritime loss follows closely on the heels of the defeat of Premier Johnson's government in British Columbia and unsuccessful bids for power by Liberals in Saskatchewan and, earlier, in Ontario.

Certain local issues were unquestionably factors in the New Brunswick election—among them the provincial 4 per cent sales tax and former Premier John B. McNair's stand against membership by public servants in international unions. The outcome, nevertheless, conforms to the pattern set in other provincial contests of recent date.

It should be noted that Premier McNair carried into the election battle the inevitable burden of grievances that pile up against a government long in office. He was, moreover, confronted with that shallow "time for a change" chant prevalent at elections where one party seems to be entrenched.

Significantly in New Brunswick the newer parties carried no weight whatsoever. They have as yet failed to dent the defences of the two older groups in that province. As the polls disclosed, the voters of New Brunswick are following no new political messiahs. But just as certainly, for the time being at least, they are not following the tried leadership of the Liberals.

In Ottawa and in several of the provinces, it behoves the Liberal leaders to ask why, and to seek a reply to their question at the earliest possible moment.

It has been stated that British Columbia voters dismissed their former government not so much because they wanted another party had to offer but because they did not want what the Liberal administration was giving them. At this distance, it is impossible to surmise that a similar attitude was manifest in New Brunswick. What was shown, however, was the clear fact that an administration top-heavy Liberal—the party standings before the election showed 47 government seats to five Conservative opposition members—lost the people's confidence.

It can be regained, we submit, only through a greater measure of responsiveness on the part of the Liberal party to the people's nominees seek to represent. Governments long in office appear to become detached from the people. The people, exercising their rights in a democracy, have a way of replying in kind to that attitude.

No Longer at the Drawing Board

FOR SEVERAL MONTHS THIS newspaper has offered its editorial page readers the cartoons of H. T. Webster in the conviction that his gentle humor and whimsy presented a heart-lifting contrast to the more serious tone of comment carried in these columns. Harold Tucker Webster died on Monday, the day after his 67th birthday, aboard a railroad train traveling to his Bridgeport home. A keen craftsman, he worked months ahead of deadline and his stock of cartoons, will continue to delight readers for some time to come.

The man who created that timid soul, "Casper Milquetoast," who was the "father" of the boy who knew "life's darkest moment" and who rose to the heights of the "thrill that comes once in a lifetime," the artist who pricked the foibles of present-day living with a deft but painless needle, had preserved a unique dignity among cartoonists of the day. His was a catholic humor, touched with the pathos of nostalgia and admirably presented in his own effective, old-fashioned style of art, that provoked the quiet chuckle.

In a day when many cartoonists tend to the outlandish, frequently the offensive, his sure and simple touch permitted the reader to smile at his own idiosyncrasies as they were exposed in Webster characters. He will be missed for the kindly laughter he gave daily to literally millions of admirers.

Chips

By DAVID BROCK

YOU probably remember the arguments, early this year, about what "half-mast" means. Some buildings were flying half-masted flags almost at the top of the staff, and considered themselves very correct and superior. Some children on our beach put up a new flagpole for themselves this summer, and were anxious to fly their various flags at half-mast as much as possible, in honor of dead pets, etc., and they asked me for a ruling. I wasn't able to tell them much, except that our army regulations say that half-mast means what it says... halfway up (or down) the mast. So I wrote to a naval chum, and he said:

"W. G. PERRIN'S 'British Flags,' which is generally considered pretty well informed, says: The custom of half-masting the flag, that is, of lowering it to a position halfway or MORE down the staff as a sign of mourning, does not seem to be very ancient, but is probably older than the 17th century. The earliest instance in which I have met it occurred in July, 1612. (During one of Babbini's voyages.) In 1675 a naval chaplain recorded that on the anniversary of the execution of Charles the First, 'wee shows all the signs of mourning as possible wee can, viz. our jacks and flags only halfe staff high.'"

MORE QUERIES

THE same children asked me about the origin of christening a ship with wine. At a wild guess, I said I fancied priests used to bless a new ship... as they still do bless many inanimate objects in certain branches of the Christian church. After the Reformation this would smack of superstition, to some people, so we probably invented a more pagan rite to replace it. (It very often happens that in getting rid of what he calls a religious superstition, modern man becomes twice as superstitious outside the church as ever he was inside it.) By keeping money back from the collection plate he is able to take it to such witch-doctors as the fortune-teller or the maker of patent medicines... (name two among a hundred).

Well, I asked my naval chum about this business. And he said: "I am told it used to be the custom to drink the ship's health in a silver cup which was then thrown into the sea. Presumably this was a pagan survival. It was discontinued, and breaking a bottle of wine was substituted, as a measure of economy, in 1690." It seems a pity we can no longer dive for silver cups around the shipyards.

REFORMS
WHEN the new provincial government gets round to studying the reform of our liquor laws, I have a little suggestion for them. Let us stop charging sales tax on the deposit paid on the bottles beer is sold in. This deposit is not a sale at all. You get it back on the empty bottles. But you don't get the sales tax back. It comes to only 3 cents on four cases. But as an example of the Official Mind it is annoying. And as a joke it isn't worth even a few cents. As a gyp it's a joke, as a joke it's a gyp.

THE REAL MENACE
IF you live in Montreal, you've either got to get used to thunderstorms or move away. So I was delighted to hear that a small nephew of mine there was no longer frightened of thunder and lightning. But I was rather depressed when he went on to say "No, I'm not scared for myself. I'm just worried in case any of my friends go out with pitchforks and lightning hits them."

What a horrible thought... the streets of Montreal jammed solid with kids carrying pitchforks as usual, and then a sudden bolt from the blue, and half of them wiped out. Perhaps we could make it illegal to carry pitchforks in Montreal. Most things are now illegal anyway, and not only in Montreal either. As I was singing to our local Chief of Police only last week:

There was an old flatfoot knocked flat as his shoe.
He had so many statutes he didn't know what to do.

LOCAL COLOR
IN New Zealand they have a shellfish called Toheroa. I believe the shells are cast up on the beach after a storm. In any event, the green contents of the shells are canned, and you heat this stuff with milk, thicken it with a cream sauce, and you have Toheroa Soup, a renowned delicacy. I've never tried it, but non-snobs are quite as enthusiastic about it as the snobs are. (Food snobs are glad you haven't had any yet, and the non-snobs are sorry.)

A FRIEND of mine was talking about a dinner at which she ate some queer Australian soup. She called it Australian, but my wife and I guessed what she meant. She forgot the name, and we hesitated to tell her, because it is rather rude to tell certain types of people that their interesting novelties are already familiar to you, if only by hearsay. So my wife said tactfully "I bet I know what it was—Kangaroo tips!"

The picture of rich old gourmets boiling up only the very tips of the kangaroos is entirely delightful, and brings one back to the Edwardian heyday of those two shops in Piccadilly where a man could buy even a duck-billed platypus if he felt hungry for one.

Still in There

Halifax Chronicle-Herald

It is a little glib and easy to take it for granted that Britain is a spent force. The same thing was believed of her at the end of the Hundred Years War, and at the end of the American War of Independence. Yet, in each case, she emerged greater than ever, moving into a new age with new skills and energies. The case today lies in the hands of Britain's own people, and not in those of her critics; and one may still see force and sense in Kipling's vital questions:

Who stands if Freedom falls?
Who dies if England lives?

HIS WORSHIP

This is the first time I have ever applied for you to publish this small letter in defense of His Worship Claude Harrison. He filled his position as City Prosecutor as a fair and just man. He has the courage of his convictions and is a hard nut to crack when he is right. The gentlemen who are trying to condemn him in my opinion would be like "Barkis" more willing than "His Worship" if they had the chance.

METCHOSIN BUS SERVICE

No one—unless the owner of a car—will come out to Metchosin to live on account of poor bus transportation, although it is one of the lovely spots on the Island. Can no way be found to improve the service?

No district will build up without good transportation facilities. Why should a transportation company be allowed to monopolize a large territory and refuse to supply an adequate service? The district would get better transportation if the franchise was canceled. The buses are few and far between, old and out of date. Fares are very high, buses run at most inconvenient times. Surely it is time something was done to improve this service.

RUSTICUS.

ON GUARD

There are plenty of warnings today of the Communists' aims and activities in Canada and everywhere in the world. But little or nothing about the extreme danger of those who while announcing themselves or other organization as being against communism, follow the party lines under orders from Moscow—no less.

We see this in the labor unions—in some—and I am afraid in the majority of the big unions. The union of the workers throughout the still free countries is a major part of the plot to conquer from within. Pricing goods and services out of sufficient markets to keep going is one way for gaining mass unemployment.

Then there is propaganda echoed by many thoughtless people that we should not be in Korea—that it is "only a civil war"—such people do not use their own minds or would realize that the Kremlin is running "the show," using the North Koreans and Red Chinese as part of the plan to conquer Asia, the Pacific and ultimately this continent as well as Europe.

It is all a global objective—long plotted—in general people should note that the Communists applaud or clamour to oppose such as the outlawing of the Communist (Labor Progressive) Party. We are all in the greatest danger alike and we should be on guard for Canada.

O CANADA.

RED FEATHER

Your reporter Don Ingham does his level best to urge Victorians, and other Vancouver Islanders, to go the limit in their contributions to Red Feather services. His writup, "Practising Christians," September 16, Page 5, especially drew my attention. With many of the practical things those mission ministers on V.I.'s west coast are doing, few will disagree.

On the other hand, I wonder if it never occurred to Don Ingham, the Red Feather committee and others, that it does not take church-addicts to perform such services: anybody who lives by the Golden Rule can, and at times does, give in such a way to his or her fellow man in less fortunate circumstances. But those of us who don't believe in superstition and all its dire consequences, as depriving its victims of their own free mind, certainly are not going to be a party to propaganda for superstition as is an integral part of what those "mission ministers" are doing.

And as long as part of Red Feather contributions are used for such propaganda, we "free thinkers" will think twice before we give to this organization without definitely demanding that our contributions will not be used for such propaganda.

How some of that propaganda works is quite clear from the item on Page 5, September 20, "Want Church Broadcasts On, Baseball Off." As if the airwaves are not polluted to the limit already by this church hocus pocus! Oh no, those "moralists" want to force the people to listen to their nonsense, or be deprived of listening to what any individual prefers to hear. If that is not Hitlerism, Stalinism—in a word, totalitarianism—what is?

F. H. STAVEMAN.
Langford Lake.

He Earned It

Ottawa Journal

In accepting the distinguished award of the Hoover Medal in the United States, Mr. Howe said with modesty that he accepted it "as a tribute to Canada, and a gesture of friendship to the engineers who have done so much to build a great nation on the northern half of this continent."

Nicely put. But this is no baksheesh medal such as the statesman or monarch may expect to receive from friends. Mr. Howe receives it in his own right as an engineer and public man and Canada merely happens to be the country where he put his talents to work.

We naturally have a thrill of pride that a Canadian should be the first outside the United States to receive an award instituted in 1929 to emphasize the importance of non-technical public service by engineers but we refuse Mr. Howe's gracious suggestion that it is a gesture of friendship to Canada any minister might receive.

Stealing Ike's Thunder

By STEWART ALSOP

GOVERNOR ADLAI STEVENSON, who regularly accuses General Dwight D. Eisenhower of stealing the Democratic platform, has been busy at work, all unobserved, stealing General Eisenhower's greatest single asset. This is the conclusion which stands out with somebody who has been campaigning with both candidates.

The Stevenson campaign strategy precisely reflects certain outstanding characteristics of the Illinois Governor: intelligence, political boldness, and perhaps most notably, tough-minded and even rather wily calculations. His great political problem has been to get himself known, and to get people to listen to what he has to say. When he was nominated, he was "Mr. X" to the vast majority of American voters—the totally unknown quantity.

During the campaign's incubating period last August, Stevenson and his advisors therefore shrewdly calculated that he must be very quickly established as a new and novel and easily identified personality in his own mind. The chief instrument to this end was Governor Stevenson's own native and remarkable abilities as a wit and phrase-maker. And now Stevenson's reputation as a first-class entertainer has been given free advertising by the Republicans, who seem to be seized with the insane notion that American voters regard a sense of humor as reprehensible.

Stevenson still suffers from anonymity, in comparison with General Eisenhower. As previously noted in this space, a good many voters seem to think his name is "Stevens." But his reputation as a humorist is already, according to reporters who have covered his campaign from the start, beginning to draw the crowds.

People want to find out if he is really as funny as he is cracked up to be. When they come to a rally, or turn on the radio or television, they hear a few jokes which are often genuinely funny—and which are always extremely damaging to the Republicans.

But these jokes are only the curtain-raiser, or teaser, to use the words favored in the entertainment trade. Take last week's speech in Hartford, Conn., as an example of the Stevenson technique. He lived well up to the entertainment-seekers' expectations, with a whole series of jokes, perfectly timed; the Governor makes his jokes dead-pan, and when he hears the first tentative laugh, he responds with an odd puckish grin, which sends his audience into peals of laughter.

DREAD SUBJECT

Then, with the audience chuckling and in good humor, the puckish grin suddenly disappears. At Hartford a great, and rather puzzled hush settled over the audience, as Stevenson began to discuss the dread subject of atomic power.

Stevenson sounded not like a candidate, but like a President, solemnly addressing all the people.

And this, of course, is precisely the way it was intended to sound. Sounding this way is the second part of Stevenson's bold, carefully calculated campaign strategy.

Which is, one suspects, precisely the way people expected General Eisenhower to sound. Gen. Eisenhower's reputation as a great world leader has been his greatest single asset. And it is odd, when you think about it, that Stevenson, the little known politician, is somehow managing to sound a good deal of the time like a great world leader, while Eisenhower, the authentic great world leader, is often made to sound like a politician.

At any rate, Stevenson's original campaign formula—wickedly partisan jokes to attract listeners, brilliant ostensibly non-partisan lectures to hold them—seems to this reporter something which Eisenhower and his campaign managers should reckon with most seriously.

Ups and Downs

By BRIAN TOBIN

THERE used to be, said the Elevator Man, "quite a fad for making things appear like something else. Medicine was made to look and taste like candy. Toothpaste became a sort of treat, like a desert. Gasoline was perfumed. The idea seemed to be, that nothing was right the way it was, it must resemble something else."

The thing was carried farther. A hamburger stand wasn't allowed to look like a hamburger stand. It had to be in the shape of an ice cream cone, or a pumpkin or an old shoe. Ordinary household articles developed a cute look. Clocks became airplanes or animals. A lot of people wondered how long this was going to go on. Well, it seems to be changing now. The latest process, as far as smells go, is to remove them entirely. Things are becoming tasteless and odorless. This new chlorophyll drug is being sprayed around regardless, and the latest "ictim is beer. Going down!"

"It seems," said the Elevator Man, "that some expert in Britain has developed a new beer that leaves no breath. And it not only does it for itself but for anything else you drink that evening. So at one fell swoop wives have lost their age-old clue to what kept hubby out so late. Now his story of long office hours, or traffic jams or sick friends can't be denied, at least on the grounds of beerly breathing. It's just as though Sherlock Holmes had lost his magnifying glass, or a bloodhound had a cold in the nose. I can see where that new type beer is going to be smuggled in where it's needed most, and command a pretty high price. It might even have repercussions in politics, where the breath of scandal can sometimes be a little overpowering. Lower main!"

"Come to think of it," said the Elevator Man, "that new recruit in the army might have used some of the new process himself. He'd have found life pleasant. 'Did you test that oil in the jeep like I told you to?' the sergeant yelled at him. 'Yes, sir,' says the fella, rattled, 'and it tasted awful.'"

Canadian Navy Doubles Reserve Force Wrens

OTTAWA, Sept. 24 (CP)—The navy announced today it has authorized a doubling of the number of reserve-force Wrens at naval divisions across Canada. The new complement is 948.

An additional number of Wrens will also be signed up for continuous duty at naval divisions and other shore establishments, naval headquarters announced. The number to be added for continuous service was not made public.

It is expected that the new objective will be easily met, the announcement said, since most divisions have a long waiting list of applicants.

Reserve-force Wrens enlist for five years and train at least once a week. Continuous naval duty will in most cases mean full-time employment in the navy for three years, with the option of serving an additional term if required.

Six-week basic training classes open this month at H.M.C.S. Cornwallis, near Digby, N.S., for Wrens starting continuous naval duty.

Pawn Ticket Evidence in Murder Trial

VANCOUVER, Sept. 24 (CP)—A pawn ticket, allegedly found in the wallet of 24-year-old William Moon of Campbell River, B.C., was entered as evidence Tuesday at his Assize Court murder trial Tuesday.

Sgt. W. H. Morphet told Mr. Justice Coady the ticket led to an East Hastings pawnshop and a wrist watch which he said was later found to belong to the dead man, 74-year-old Renaldo Valle, roominghouse caretaker.

Two trials within trials featured the second day of the trial. Both were over objections by defense counsel J. J. Sutherland against admissibility of alleged statements made by Moon to police, following his arrest May 19.

His Lordship ruled both an oral statement and written statement by the accused were admissible. Morphet said Moon at first said he brought the watch with him from Campbell River.

Victoria cancer clinic at Royal Jubilee Hospital examined 24 new patients in August, according to the monthly report given the clinic advisory committee by Dr. N. S. Lockyer.

Of these, 20 were found to have cancer. In the group were 17 Victorians, and seven patients from Island points.

During the month 538 X-ray treatments were given, and 632 examinations and other treatments included 71 check-ups of former patients.

Dr. H. M. Edmison told the committee the radio-therapy department at the hospital has now been approved for graduate training.

Chairman of the clinic advisory committee is Dr. H. H. Murphy.

Help for Aging

The work of the Senior Auxiliary of St. Joseph's Hospital has brightened the days of many aged men and women of the Greater Victoria area.

Its records are filled with the stories of heart-warming service. In the cases of two old gentlemen, 76 and 79, both living alone and quite unable to care for themselves, the Auxiliary stepped in where B.C. Hospital Insurance gave no coverage.

In the case of a small income family, where the patient was over 80, the Auxiliary provided hospitalization for 44 days.

The Auxiliary has a patient in hospital at present whose account amounts to more than $500. Like many of those helped, this patient has undertaken to pay back the money advanced when he is working again.

But there is a little Indian child who is not covered by Indian Department responsibility, whose $640 bill can never be recovered.

Nor will the woman whose husband is still in the Veterans' Hospital be asked to pay a $400 account.

And there are many like these who, through no fault of their own, cannot meet the cost of cure.

The St. Joseph's Auxiliary willingly shoulders the burden; but it is grateful for every dollar of your help from the Red Feather. The bigger its fund the greater its aid.

ISLAND DIGEST

TOFINO, Sept. 24.—General contractors have been asked to submit tenders for construction of a new hospital here to replace the building destroyed in a spectacular fire earlier this year.

Plans call for a two-story frame and concrete building, 145 by 134 feet, with space for 20 beds. Estimated cost is $175,000.

ALBERNI, Sept. 24.—Connection of Faber and Stirling Arm Roads in the Sproat Lake district, now under way, will provide a circular route through the two areas and may be followed by establishment of a rural mail route.

Residents also hope for extension of power and telephone facilities and foresee the time when summer homes on Sproat Lake will be occupied 12 months each year.

PORT ALBERNI, Sept. 24.—Alberni District School Board finds itself in the novel position of having an excess of teachers and accommodation, due to the departure of many families from the district during the I.W.A. strike. The board will retain the teachers, however, in anticipation of an influx of new residents in the next few months.

THETIS ISLAND, Sept. 24.—Hunters are making themselves unpopular on this island, opposite Chemainus, in the Straits of Georgia.

H. Walton Smith, who heard gunfire at 2 a.m. one morning this week, found one of his sheep shot. Another resident found the head of a doe near his home, and saw a boat being loaded with deer carcasses early in the morning.

NANAIMO, Sept. 24.—Cedar Ratepayers' Association, which complained at its last meeting of September slash burning, will send a protest against the annual burning to the minister of lands and forests.

NANAIMO, Sept. 24.—A Vancouver radio engineer, using a sensitive instrument, has traced suspected leaks in water mains beneath Commercial Street. It was decided they were too small to warrant tearing up pavement to make repairs.

The investigation was made following complaints from merchants that water was seeping into their basements.

DUNCAN, Sept. 24.—Funeral services were held here today for John Hunter, native of Scotland who died Monday at his Sherman Road home. He was 80 years of age, and had resided at White Rock and Cloverdale before retiring to Vancouver Island.

'Some Weeks' Yet Of School Shifts

The shift system is working out satisfactorily in some Greater Victoria schools and will continue for several weeks, yet, J. F. K. English, municipal inspector, said today.

Total enrollment now stands at 12,748 in Greater Victoria schools—800 more pupils than a year ago.

Greatest influx has occurred in the elementary schools where accommodation is being taxed to capacity to handle an extra 715 children, Mr. English said.

To take care of some of these, temporary classroom space has been provided at George Jay, Tolmie, Quadra and Burnside Schools. In some schools a shift system has been instituted until necessary accommodation is ready.

Good progress is reported on erection of portable units at View Royal, Craigflower, Oaklands and Cedar Hill Schools.

Russia Fails To Stall German Rearming Plans

Propaganda Campaign Written Off by U.S.

By JOHN HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24 (AP)—Russia's effort to stall West German rearmament by making propaganda on German unity is being written off by United States diplomats as a failure.

Authorities summarizing the results of an eight-note exchange between the western powers and the Soviets on Germany's future said today they were convinced the Soviets have not succeeded in creating any serious new obstacles to plans for adding German forces to the west European defense set-up.

The treaty establishing the European defense community has still to get parliamentary action at both Bonn and Paris, but there is strong expectation here that the West German bundestag will approve after sharp debate. There is less optimism about French approval—not because of the Soviet diplomatic drive but because of strong French fears about the recreation of German military forces.

The British, U.S. and French embassies in Moscow Tuesday delivered identical notes on the German issue to the Soviet Foreign Office. The exchange was started by the Kremlin last March 10 and in the intervening six months there have been a total of four note exchanges. The initial Soviet proposal was that the Big Four governments should meet and talk about drafting a German peace treaty and the unification of East and West Germany. The most recent from Moscow was along substantially the same lines.

The western power position, in the identical notes which London, Paris and Washington have sent in reply, has also been basically the same.

The western powers assert that if Germany is to be unified now it must be under an all-German government which must be chosen in free elections, and that therefore the initial step is to determine that conditions for free elections exist.

Tuesday's note said that "the Soviet government has evaded this clear issue."

B.C. Leftists Lead Strike Policy Move at C.C.L. Convention

TORONTO, Sept. 24—Lloyd Whalen, Vancouver, voluble left-winger but anti-Communist, who recently led the I.W.A. through an unsupported six weeks' strike in B.C., and another left-winger, William Stewart of the B.C. Shipyard Workers, spear-headed a fight at the C.C.L. convention here Tuesday in the passing of a united strike action policy.

Whalen bitterly told the convention the I.W.A. had received "a minimum, an absolute minimum, of support from the C.C.L."

The resolution was a direct slap at president A. R. Mosher who refused earlier this week to support the I.W.A. strike.

"It's a damnable and despicable condition when I have to state here we did not have support of our strike," he said. Whalen related how Mosher had turned down his request for a national conference supporting the strike.

"The answer of Mr. Mosher was that if he called a special conference for us, he'd have to do it for all unions. I'd like to know," Whalen asked, "what is the organization for if not to rally the support of all workers in the event of a strike?"

He was wildly cheered by the 900-odd delegates.

William Stewart said employer groups were waiting for an opportunity to smash labor.

Just man Harry Chappell, touted as Mosher's successor, and Larry Sefton, a leading steelworkers' official, both Chappell and Sefton tried to stem the tide when they tried to win approval for substitute resolutions.

as they tried in the 1945 Ford strike and again in 1952.

In passing the resolution the convention brushed aside chair-

Dressen Toasts Dodgers After Pennant-Clincher

By CARL LUNDQUIST, United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK, Sept. 24 (UP)—Charley Dressen, the chipper skipper, nursed a victory highball after lifting it in toast to his Brooklyn Dodgers Tuesday and then added a special tribute—"To Joe Black."

"Without him we couldn't have done it," he said. "He made the big difference."

The situation was reminiscent of 1947 when another manager toasted another Joe—and it was remarkably parallel. That was when Bucky Harris of the Yankees lifted his after-game drink to Joe Page, who like Black was a fireball relief pitcher delegated to the saving of victory after victory.

QUIET VICTORY
Dressen, quiet and in no search of revelry after the pennant-clinching decision over the Phillies, sat in his dressing cubicle long after the draggy doubleheader and talked nothing but baseball.

"This was an amazing year and we had an amazing team with out a 20-game winner and with Black the only 15-game man," he said. "But this time we showed we had it in the clutch and I think we'll also have it in the clutch in the world series—against the Yankees or the Indians."

Dressen hedged a little from his earlier plans and acting like a man who had suddenly struck oil in about three localities at once, said that "I've got plenty of pitchers for the series."

"I think I can say definitely that for the first game it will be Joe Black, Carl Erskine, or Preacher Roe," he said—very definitely.

SNIDER AGAIN
The Dodgers gained their first flag since 1949 and their sixth in modern National League history, when they topped the Phils, 5-4, in a first-game thriller Tuesday night in which Duke Snider significantly doubled home the two winning runs. For it was Snider who drove home their "pennant" run when they took the title in Philadelphia on the last day of the season in 1949.

The Dodgers, who couldn't uncork their champagne in earnest until after the second game of the double bill, had to battle 12 innings before losing a 1-0 anticlimax decision to lefty, Curt Simmons. The game was important to the Phils, who are battling for third place.

In the American League, the Yankees are rained out and the Indians were almost closed out in the battle for the flag when they blew a 10-1 decision to the White Sox. Mike Garcia was whacked for five runs in the first inning and Cleveland never had a chance thereafter. Chicago

Cougars Assigned 7 Players; Mazur or Kilburn to Report

Six From Last Year's Team Sent by Montreal

By DENNY BOYD

The veil of secrecy that has hung over the Victoria Cougars was lifted Tuesday night to reveal that six of last year's players and one newcomer have been assigned to Victoria and will be here Monday when the Cougars open training.

Concurrent with the release of the seven names was the surprise announcement from Cougar general manager Fred Hutchinson that the Montreal Canadiens have assured Cougar manager Lester Patrick that either Eddy Mazur or Colin Kilburn would be performing for the Cougars this season.

SIX RETURNING

The six members of last year's club who have been reassigned to Victoria for the 1952-53 season are Eddy Dorohoy, Reg Abbott, Andy Heberton, Ernie Roche, Doug Anderson and Leon Bouchard. The newcomer is defenseman Ivan Irwin, who played the last three seasons with Cincinnati of the American Hockey League.

There is still no announcement regarding appointment of a coach to succeed Roger Leger. The addition of either Mazur or Kilburn would be a boon to the Victoria club. The popular, gangling Mazur, whose blazing but awkward skating style at left wing earned him the nickname of "Spider," scored 58 points for Victoria in the 1949-50 season.

In the 1950-51 season, Mazur was the Cougars' leading goal scorer with 43.

PLAYED WITH HABS

Last season Mazur went to Buffalo of the American Hockey League and from there he jumped to the Montreal Canadiens. He was hoisted to the Habs in time for the N.H.L. playoffs and scored two goals in his short stint of five games.

The flashy Kilburn, who was with Edmonton last year, was the third highest scorer on the Edmonton club and ranked 15th in the league scoring. In 63 games the hard-hitting Kilburn racked up 31 goals and 37 assists for 68 points. He also spent 73 minutes in the penalty box. In four playoff games last year Kilburn scored three points.

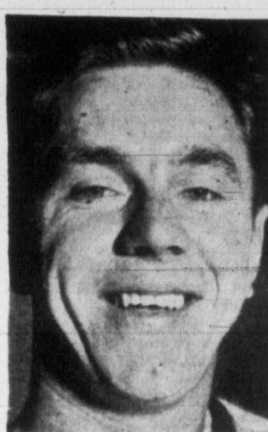

Should Kilburn join the Cougars, he would be re-united with Anderson. Before turning professional, the pair were a highly-rated pair of "gold dust twins." Anderson and Kilburn are joint owners of a billiard parlor in Edmonton.

RUGGED PERFORMER

Irwin, a six-foot, two-inch defenseman tipping the scales at 185 pounds, will be subject to recall to Montreal. Reportedly a popular player with Cincinnati, Irwin was regarded as a stone wall on defense although not a

Teeder Suffers Injury in Training Camp

ST. CATHARINES, Ontario, Sept. 24 (BUP)—Captain Ted Kennedy of the Toronto Maple Leafs has been injured during practice at the team's St. Catharines, Ontario camp.

However, the doctors say his injuries are not serious. He is thought to be suffering from a wrench shoulder.

Meanwhile, the Toronto goalie is back on a diet, only this time there's a different man in the scene.

During his last season, Turk Broda made hockey news when he tackled his "fat man" diet, that Conn Smythe decreed. Well, Harry Lumley hasn't yet played a single game for the Leafs but he's on a diet of boiled eggs trying to lose a little weight.

He went down to 211 pounds after a practice, drank a couple glasses of water and as he says, "before I knew it, I was 214 again."

BEVOS SEND CAL McIRVIN TO SPOKANE

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 24 (AP)—Portland Beavers of the Coast League announced that pitcher Cal McIrvin was being turned over to Spokane Indians of the Western International League.

General manager Bill Mulligan said that completes a deal by which Portland acquired Joe Rossi from Spokane in 1951. McIrvin, a left-handed pitcher who also can play first base, performed mostly for Victoria in the W.I.L. this year, compiling a 13-4 record there.

BEAT INDIANS AGAIN

V.L.C. Close To Trip East

VANCOUVER, Sept. 24 (CP)—Vancouver moved to within one game of a berth in the Mann Cup finals Tuesday night, defeating P.N.E. Indians 13-10 before 3,200 fans.

The win gives Vancouver a 3-2 edge in the best-of-seven series. A Vancouver protest of their 9-8 loss in the fourth game of the series was disallowed by the Inter-city Lacrosse League commission.

Sam Sakich, listed as a spare in the starting lineup, turned out to be the hero as far as Vancouver was concerned. Sakich played only the fourth quarter but he scored two goals, the winner and the clincher as the Indian defense collapsed.

Vancouver had a wide territorial margin but found goalie Stan Joseph a tough man to beat. He stopped 28 of 41 shots. At the other end, Jack Green handled 26. Vancouver was never more than tied during the first half. Ernie Smith opened the scoring at the 15-second mark of the first quarter and Jim Swanson made it 2-0 three minutes later. Indians came back to tie the score but Smith scored again to give the winners a 3-2 quarter time lead.

Vancouver outscored Indians 2-1 in the second quarter and carried a 5-3 lead into the third. Indians used up only a minute and 52 seconds to take a 6-5 lead. Ken Jones, Alf Brenner and Bill Stuart doing the scoring.

Vancouver came back strong in the final minutes of the quarter to take a 10-7 lead into the final 15 minutes. Indians pulled to within one goal of the winners before Sakich broke loose for his clincher.

Sixth game of the series will be played Thursday night.

Wings Lead Royals by Two Games

ROCHESTER, New York, Sept. 24 (BUP)—The Rochester Red Wings tripped the Montreal Royals 4-2 Tuesday night to take a 3-1 lead in their International League final.

Al Pappalardo allowed the Royals only six hits, including a second inning homer by Jim Pendent that gave Montreal a temporary 1-0 lead. The loser, Johnny Podres, gave way in the seventh to Gill Mills, and the two hurlers allowed a total of only five hits.

However, two of them were home runs—one a three-run round-tripper by Dick Lamers in the second inning, and one by Rip Ripulski in the fourth. The Wings won the first game in the best-of-seven series from the champion Royals last Saturday in Montreal, dropped the second, and won the third Tuesday in their own park.

The fifth game will be played tonight at Rochester.

CANUCKS OFF TO PENTICTON

VANCOUVER, Sept. 24 (BUP)—Vancouver Canucks of the Western Hockey League left this morning for their training camp at Penticton with an overhauled roster featuring players loaned by the New York Rangers.

Coach and assistant general manager Art Chapman said further player-hoop from the Rangers was anticipated in the form of two more forwards and a defenseman. Three forwards and a defenseman arrived early this week from the Ranger camp at Guelph, Ont.

Exhibition games were lined up for the Canucks with Tacoma Rockets Sept. 30, Seattle Oct. 3 at Penticton, to be followed by return games in both American centres.

THANKSGIVING DAY MATCH

District Reps Meet United in Exhibition

Thanksgiving Day week-end sports program will include a soccer game between the Victoria United of Coast League company and possibly an all-star aggregation from the Victoria and District Football Association.

Don Gray, secretary of the association, today said he had completed negotiations with United for the game to be played at Royal Athletic Park October 13.

"I'm not sure at this time what the opposition to the United will be but we have decided that the game should start at 1 p.m. so that hockey fans among the crowd can also attend the hockey game later in the afternoon," said Gray.

CHANGE SITE

Owing to the Beacon Hill Park pitch not being in condition for a game at this time, Gray said that the league battle between Civil Service and the Canadian Scottish will take place Saturday at 2.30 at Windsor Park. Oak Bay. On Sunday two old rivals in senior soccer, Esquimalt and Victoria West, will meet in a league fixture at Athletic Park.

THE WEDNESDAY QUARTERBACK

'Seer' Sees Winnipeg, Toronto Victors

It was a black week-end for two major conference teams. With the Canadian football season nowhere half-way completed, Saskatchewan Roughriders and Montreal Alouettes have already lost their play-off chances and, of course, a crack at the coveted Grey Cup.

On Saturday the Montreal team bowed in a "squeak" 8-7 game to Ottawa Roughriders. It was the Larks' fourth straight loss in a 12-game schedule. Meanwhile the undermanned Saskatchewan Roughriders fell twice before the league-leading Winnipeg Blue Bombers, 18-7, Saturday, and Monday by a whopping 35-6 score. The hapless Roughies, last year's western champs and Grey Cup finalists, have won only two games out of nine.

Only statistics favor either the Alouettes or the Roughriders making the play-offs. But these can be discounted enough to be negligible.

While the losers were being decided, however, three powerhouses, possibly four, were making their names feared on the country's gridiron.

In the west, on the tremendous flinging arm of Indian Jack Jacobs, the Bombers were beginning to show the power that made their three-game eastern exhibition junket a clean sweep against Toronto Argonauts, Hamilton Ti-Cats and Ottawa Roughriders last August.

Saturday the Bombers produced two miracle runners who had been out of recent line-ups with injuries, Tom Casey and Tom Ford. Both made runs almost the entire length of the gridiron to rack up two touchdowns to beat the Roughriders 18-7 before 11,000 fans.

On Monday, Jacobs (sometimes unpredictable) completed 21 passes for a phenomenal gain of 320 yards and four of Winnipeg's six touchdowns. Second western powerhouse, the Edmonton Eskimos, rolled into second place past the stumbling Calgary Stampeders. Once the league's cellar-dwellers, Frank Filchick's boys girded themselves in a desperate last-minute bid to overcome a 9-3 lead. Filchick came into the game, tossed one of his famed forwards and soon after that the game was tied up. A single in the waning seconds from the boot of Rod Pantangas, made it 10-9 and the ball game. Remembering, however, that the western league allows three of its four teams to compete in a play-off to decide a conference champion it would be foolish to regard the Calgary aggregation too lightly. Even though the football squad has lost the services of star import Johnny Bright via an appendectomy there is always a chance that Les Lear's men will be in at the finish—especially should Bombers and Eskimos run afoul of a series of injuries.

In the east, Argonaut's relentless advance was checked at last. Hamilton Ti-Cats, fighting from behind until the final gun, held the great Toronto double blue team to a 13-13 tie. None-the-less, over the short season to date, Frank Clare's squad have proved themselves the class of the east. My prediction is that—failing injuries—it will be Hamilton and Argos for the leadership at play-off time with all due respects to Ottawa Roughriders.

If I may carry my trance a paragraph further I will choose Winnipeg Blue Bombers versus Argos on Grey Cup day.

FIGHT WAS KIDS' STUFF COMPARED TO DRIVE-IN

RUTHERFORD, N.J., Sept. 24 (AP)—The Rocky Marciano-Joe Walcott slugfest Tuesday night was a tea-and-crumpets waltz compared with goings-on at a drive-in movie showing the fight.

A rampaging mob, estimated between 20,000 and 30,000, descended on the drive-in. They double and triple parked on two main highways, tied up traffic for hours for miles around; brawled among themselves; built bonfires to keep warm; swigged beer, played poker and practically wrecked the place.

The theatre charged a flat rate of $10 per car, with no limit on the number of persons to a car.

Hours before the fight hit the screen via a television hook-up from Philadelphia, thousands of cars were lined up for admission. A midge auto strained under the weight of a dozen people. Three men crowded into the trunk of another car, already bulging at the seams.

Seymour Weiss, theatre manager, estimated 20,000 persons were inside the lot alone. A good house usually, he said, numbered 3,500.

THRILLING PROGRAM

Racers Plan Benefit For Hurt Spectator

One of the biggest thrill spectacles that has been presented this year at the Sheering Speedway near Duncan is in store for car racing fans Saturday night.

It is a benefit program for 15-year-old Ronald Ainey, of Victoria, who, as a spectator, recently suffered severe leg injuries in a freak accident at the track.

Doctors believe the boy will be able to walk again. He suffered a compound fracture of the lower right leg. The benefit program is designed to secure money to help defray heavy expenses involved in his recovery. For a time it was feared the badly crushed leg would have to be amputated but medical science has saved the limb.

Twenty-three-year-old Bill Miller, of Victoria, will be in one of the star roles in the program. There will be big-car racing under the rules of the B.C. Automotive Sports Association and modified and stock car racing under the Vancouver Island Track Roadster Association, but several other features are carded that should give the program a more spectacular flavor.

Heller will pilot a car through a flaming wall. Heller has been through this show several times before. Heller will then pilot a car in a roll-over performance. There is a possibility of a head-on crash performance.

Officials are also planning on unique "blindfold" races. In this type of event there are four cars. All drivers are blindfolded and they have to drive by the instructions given them by the co-pilots who accompany them.

Showers Rains Goals In Oak Bay Victory

The classy Oak Bay squad has won the city bantam lacrosse championship.

They won the title trophy, the Fred Francis Cup, Tuesday afternoon, at Stevenson Park by downing Fernwood, 14-7, to win the best-of-five playoff series three games to one. One game in the series ended in a tie.

Jack Showers powered the Oak Bay club to their cup-winning victory by firing in eight goals.

Fred Wooster was also a big factor in the victory. His performance in the winners' goal blocked many potential scoring shots by Fernwood.

Barry Waters scored three other goals for Oak Bay. Harvey Barker tallied twice and Stewart Smith once. Ed Kowalyk was the star for the losers. He sagged the hemp five times. The other two were scored by Tom Evans and Al Hayton.

Sledge-Hammer Right Wins Crown for Rocky

Marciano First Champ Who Has Never Lost

By MURRAY ROSE

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24 (AP)—Rocky Marciano, the guy Jersey Joe Walcott and many others said "can't fight," today held the world's heavyweight championship.

"They'll probably say he still can't fight," said trainer Charley Goldman shortly after the dynamic, 28-year-old flattened Walcott in 43 seconds of the 13th round with one perfect right and sent him into retirement.

"But who's going to beat him?"

The 38-year-old Walcott gave it a gallant try. A stunned crowd of 40,379 saw him floor the new champion for the first time in his career in the first round with a beautiful left hook to the chin.

Rocky stayed off the canvas the rest of the way, but the cards of all three officials showed him trailing the crafty Camden, N.J., veteran on points up to the fatal 13th. And when it was over, it took eight stitches to sew up an ugly gash on Marciano's head and another six to look after a cut on his forehead.

But all that was wiped out by one beautiful right. It was the punch that turned the tables just as it was Jersey Joe's one left hook that enabled him to knock the crown off Charles' head in the steaming heat of Pittsburgh on July 18, 1951.

Jersey Joe's Greatest Fight

Walcott's eyes went blank. The old guy, who put up one of the greatest fights of his long career, sank slowly to the canvas. One knee was twisted under him and his forehead rested on the floor as referee Charley Daggert tolled the fatal 10. Then Walcott stretched out on his back.

Marciano's supporters in the huge throng went wild. A horde of wild-eyed rooters pushed past the police, swarmed through and over the press rows and stormed into the ring to pay homage to their hero. For over 15 minutes they jubilantly acclaimed their idol until the police cleared them away.

The swarthy, modest, solidly built Brockton husky thus became the first heavyweight ever to achieve the throne to boxing's most prized kingdom without a defeat or draw to mar his record.

Rocky had never been floored until Jersey Joe sent him to the deck with a terrific left hook on the chin in the first round. Rocky clambered to his feet at four, held on and then fought back. Another left hook wobbled Marciano near the close of the round.

He had answered the questions the critics had asked. Could he take Walcott's feared punch and go on? He showed he had the stuff of which champions are made.

"It didn't feel so bad," said Rocky. "Carmine Vingo's punch hurt me more. This really didn't hurt me—no kidding. But I was on the floor. I was mad at myself. I remembered what Charley (Goldman) told me. 'If you get knocked down, take eight. Don't be brave—take the eight.' But I wanted to get up in the worst way. I just couldn't wait."

Up he came and it was a dilly the rest of the way. Walcott didn't show his age as he fought a brilliant battle—until the payoff punch. He bowed beautifully, traded blows with his younger rival and often made Rocky break off the exchanges.

Thus, as he won the title, Jersey Joe lost it—with one blow. "Whatever Felix says I'll do," said the heart-broken champion.

"He looked pathetic against the ropes and I don't want him to get hurt," said Boicchio. "He still has all his faculties and has money in the bank. Joe made over a million dollars in the ring. He's retiring. Joe has been a great champ and that's the way we want people to remember him."

Ex-Champ Through With Ring

"Felix brought me this far from nothing," said Jersey Joe. "If he says I'm through, I'm through. We expect to go into business together. I don't know what kind of a business yet."

Asked about Marciano, whom he had derided in the past, Walcott said almost audibly: "He's a good puncher, a good puncher. He hurt me several times. No, I wasn't tired. I was setting the pace when, bang! I don't know what he hit me with. I just don't remember anything."

The old guy said he thought he had Rocky in the first round when he dropped him. "But I lost him. I just lost him. I should have finished it then, but he got away from me."

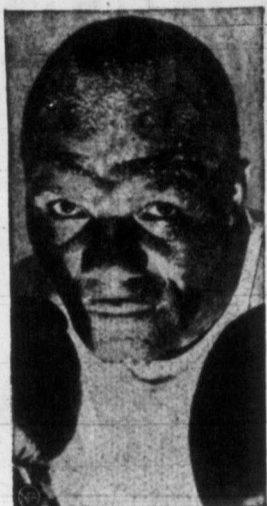

Probably millions of dollars traded hands on the one punch. It was one of the biggest betting fights in years with Rocky winding up as the 9 to 5 favorite. Walcott, oldest champion ever to defend his crown, outweighed Rocky, 196 to 184.

The fight grossed $504,645 at the gate and theatre-television probably will add another $125,000.

On his 40 per cent, Walcott earned approximately $188,000. Rocky, cut in for 20 per cent, reaped about $94,035.

EDMONTON, Sept. 24 (BUP).—It was the foot in football that was leading the scoring column in the Western Conference today.

Ends Bob Shaw of the Calgary Stampers and Joe (The Toe) Aguirre of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers were tied for first place with 44 points.

Shaw had 16 converts and four field goals. Aguirre had 17 converts and one field goal. Aguirre was in front 4-3 on touchdowns and 4-1 on singles.

The major touchdown producers were further down the list, behind Bud Korchak of the Bombers who was in third place with 41 points on the strength of his 22 converts and three field goals.

Normie (China Clipper) Kwong of the Edmonton Eskimos was the conference touchdown leader with seven. Halfback Paul Salata of the Stampers and end Holland Applin of the Saskatchewan Roughriders were tied for fifth place with 30 points, all on touchdowns.

"Momentous Decisions" for Communist Congress

10 Victoria Daily Times WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 24, 1953

BY LEON DENNEN
PARIS, Sept. 24 (NEA)—Vital Soviet decisions affecting relations with the West are expected to come from the 19th Congress of the Russian Communist Party.

The Red conclave, scheduled to open in Moscow on October 5, has been described by the Soviet newspaper Pravda as a "great event in the life of the party and the entire country."

According to labor sources behind the Iron Curtain, it will be followed by a secret session of the Cominform at which "momentous military and political decisions will be made."

Top Cominformists—from Red China and Japan to East Germany—are already converging on the Soviet capital ostensibly as "fraternal delegates" to the congress.

Why has Stalin decided to revive the Communist Congress as the supreme authority in Russia after having kept it in cold storage during 13 extremely critical war and post-war years?

The last Communist party congress was held early in 1939, following five years of blood purges and political strife which consolidated Stalin's grip on the country. It paved the way for the Stalin-Hitler pact and the outbreak of the Second World War.

Some European students of communism see a threatening parallel between the 1939 congress and the one to be held in October. They believe that the current Soviet-Chinese negotiations, the continuous purges of top satellite Reds, forthcoming "peace" congresses in Vienna and Peking, and the recent reshuffle of Russian ambassadors may be signs that, under the disguise of believe the Russians have peace, the Soviets are making realistically decided to strengthen their domestic economy and

Ominous Precedent

Last congress of the Russian Communist Party, in 1939, paved the way for the outbreak of Second World War. This year's meeting is seen, by some students of Communism, as a threatening parallel.

satellite alliances before risking any aggressive adventures. The truth may be that pro and anti-war elements are still struggling for power in the Soviet hierarchy.

No report on the Politburo's motives and secret moves is foolproof. Few ordinary mortals have ever penetrated the secret chambers under the onion-shaped domes of the Kremlin. But the consensus of experts who have long been observing and following the tortuous twists and turns of Russian strategy is:

1. The Soviet Empire is being geared and strengthened to march the growing muscle of the western powers.

2. In anticipation of continued world tension, the Kremlin rulers seek to tighten their grip on Russia and the nations within their orbit.

Far reaching "reforms" will undoubtedly be inaugurated at the Red congress. Even the word "Bolshevik" which is so closely associated with Lenin, the founder of the Soviet state, will be eliminated from the new title of the "Communist Party of the Soviet Union."

The Kremlin's "American experts" reportedly take a gloomy view of the U.S. presidential elections, classing Republicans and Democrats alike as "aggressive circles."

Stalin's sensational proposal to substitute a "presidium" for the Politburo—intensely hated by a vast majority of Russians—is obviously a gesture in the direction of those who want more democracy in the party. But in the view of experts on communism, this change does not indicate any lessening of control on the part of Stalin and his men. The contrary is true.

The "new presidium" which is to be formed in October to "guide the work of the central committee between sessions" will perform both the tasks of government and party. It will have even more power than the Politburo and will comprise the same Kremlin dignitaries with the possible addition of a few "younger elements."

It seems certain that, with the aged dictator suffering from heart trouble, preparations will also be made for his gradual withdrawal from the exercise of supreme control.

But the fact that burly Georgi M. Malenkov will deliver the key note address—a job hitherto performed only by Lenin and Stalin —should not be overemphasized. Dynamic and ruthless Malenkov has been built up by Stalin over the years as one of the "super-architects" of the "new world" the Reds believe they are building. At 50, he is secretary of the Communist Party, Vice Premier of the Soviet Union and member of the Politburo.

But Vyacheslav M. Molotov, Stalin's constant companion and associate throughout the bloody years, is still very much in the race. One of the few "old Bolsheviks" to survive Stalin's purges, Molotov, though a decade older than Malenkov, remains for the present the Number Two man after the dictator.

Mainbrace Winds Up

Sea Exercises Point Up Canada's Anti-Submarine Role in Next War

By DICK BROME

ABOARD H.M.C.S. MAGNIFICENT, en route to the Clyde, Sept. 24 (BUP).—The Canadian navy's role as an anti-submarine force in the event of another war was sharply emphasized by exercise "Mainbrace," which ended its manoeuvres in the North Sea Tuesday.

As this Canadian carrier steamed back to the Clyde before starting on the long run to Halifax to end a four-month tour of duty at sea, Capt. Kenneth L. Dyer of Grand Pre, N.S., commander of the Magnificent, said Mainbrace was a success "in terms of experience."

"It was the kind of experience we couldn't get in any other way," he said.

Canadian fliers concentrated exclusively on anti-submarine work during the ten-day N.A.T.O. exercise on the North Sea and in the Skagerrak. The Magnificent was officially credited with the only two submarine "kills" made by carrier planes attached to Task Force 171.

Dyer praised the work of the Maggie's avenger pilots who had the job of spotting and sinking submarines.

"We had the advantage because we were allowed to concentrate on anti-submarine work, and we were not given a lot of other tasks to run off and do," Dyer said.

The Magnificent ended the exercise with a flightless day as low clouds closed over the Skagerrak. A climax in the eight-nation joint military manoeuvre came in the grey rainy dawn when the Magnificent and sixty other ships converged for replenishment exercises.

The international character of the exercise was emphasized when the Magnificent and the U.S. destroyer Ingersoll nosed up on opposite sides of the British fleet oiler, Wave Prince, to take on fuel at the same time.

All about the Magnificent, whenever the mists lifted, similar three-ship groups could be seen with Dutch, Norwegian, Danish, Belgian, French, British and American ships taking lines from oilers, as the whole force steamed steadily eastwards.

The final blow of the "Orange" opposing forces in the exercise came in a submarine raid on the armada.

Fleet Flagship 'Sunk' by Foe

A green very pistol flare, used in the exercise to symbolize a torpedo, rose from the water almost directly ahead of the Magnificent, taking the whole fleet by surprise.

The submarine had passed destroyer and frigate screens undetected.

Rear-Admiral W. G. A. Robson, task force commander, signalled to the rest of the fleet this his flagship, Theseus, had been torpedoed and "sunk."

Robson's message served as a friendly wind-up to the exercise and allowed the Theseus to withdraw from the armada and head for Portsmouth and her next exercise.

Late in the day, Capt. Dyer, Cmdr. Arthur Abrams of the Royal Navy who commanded air units aboard the Magnificent, and Lt. Cmdr. Harry Porter of Victoria, communications officer, prepared to transfer to the British cruiser Swiftsure for a run into Oslo, where a final critique on the exercise will be held.

The three senior officers tried

Mapledell Loads At Vancouver for Voyage to Orient

VANCOUVER, Sept. 24 (CP).—Canadian flour and meat were being loaded today aboard the 10,000-ton cargo freighter Mapledell in preparation for her first voyage to the Orient.

One of two Canadian Pacific cargo ships in Orient service, the Mapledell tied up Thursday at terminal docks here after a voyage through the Panama Canal from Montreal.

The Mapledell's cargo is destined for Yokohama, Kobe, Nagoya, Hong Kong, Cebu and Manila. With her sister ship, the Maplecove, the Mapledell will provide a monthly service to oriental ports from Vancouver, Seattle, and Tacoma, Wash.

Capt. G. O. Baugh of Vancouver is in command of the cargo freighter, manned by an all-Canadian crew.

Well-Known B.C. Tugboat Skipper Dies Aboard Ship

VANCOUVER, Sept. 24 (CP).—British Columbia coast lost a senior tugboat skipper in the death Monday of Captain Allan O. Clappitt, skipper of the Prospective II, of the M. R. Cliff Tugboat Company.

The vessel was en route from Sechart to Vancouver when it was reported to have been in the area of the B.C. Airlines plane crash. However, Captain Clappitt is believed to have died before arrival of the plane.

His body was flown to Vancouver and another skipper was flown to the tugboat to take it into Vancouver.

Captain Clappitt was widely known as an organizer and coach of young swimmers, and for the past 30 years served as an official starter at the annual Kelowna regatta.

A total of 320 students are now enrolled at Victoria College, according to registrar Dorothy Cruickshank.

The number is 13 above the total registered at this same date last year.

There are 233 men and 87 women. The total number of students in first year stands at 248 of which 173 are men and 75 women; second year 72 in all—33 men and 39 women.

Total registrations at the end of September last year stood at 316.

MUSICAL TREAT

Fine Artists Booked for Concert Here

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

This city's new and all-British Columbia concert series opens Thursday night in the Victoria Ballroom, Government Street, with a distinguished program of vocal and pianoforte selections.

Indications are that a warm welcome will be given the series. A large number of music lovers have booked seats to hear John Dunbar, Victoria's baritone runner-up in 1952 Singing Stars of Tomorrow finals, and Marion Barnum, outstanding Vancouver pianist, who recently relinquished a teaching fellowship with the Juilliard School in New York.

Miss Barnum has included in her portion of the program, Scarlatti, Mozart, a fine Chopin group, Liszt (including the famous "Valse Op. 69," Gershwin and Khachaturian.

Dunbar will be accompanied by Mary Wood and will sing Schubert, Tchaikovsky, Wagner's "O Star of Eve," an early classical group and one of modern ballads.

The concert is being held under the distinguished patronage of Mayor and Mrs. Claude Harrison, Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Hickman, Mr. and Mrs. Graham Steed, Miss Kathleen Agnew and Mrs. Eliza Mayhew.

College Night Classes Open

Three classes in Victoria College evening division courses get underway at the college tonight at 8.

They are: Problems of Canadian Democracy, with Prof. Charles Burchill, instructor; French Conversation, with Ronald Oldum, assistant professor of French at Royal Roads, and Office Management, sponsored by Victoria Chapter of the National Office Management Association.

The French class is completely filled but further registrations will be taken tonight in the other two.

In the Canadian Democracy course, 12 lectures will be given, devoted to an examination of the historical background of problems of current political and economic interest in Canada.

The Office Management course has been developed to assist managers in charge of both small and large offices. The course is given by a variety of speakers.

Brotherhood Fish Will Be Labeled 'Hot'

VANCOUVER, B.C., Sept. 24 (BUP).—The striking United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union voted Tuesday night to halt the movement of fish caught by the native brotherhood which broke away from the 18-day fish strike and signed a new price agreement.

The Indians returned to the fishing ground early today a few hours after salmon packers crews voted that union tendersmen refuse to handle "hot" net-caught salmon of the brotherhood.

The union said the non-striking tendersmen were willing to accept work on packers or barges that were not handling Indian catches.

A second union meeting was scheduled for today when the 3,000 strikers will vote on the minimum price offer accepted by 1,000 natives. The fishermen's strike committee recommended rejection of the offer.

THIS SONG LEADS THE HIT PARADE

PHILADELPHIA (NEA).—Few nicknames have caught on as fast as Bibbles Bawel.

The lean, agile Philadelphia Eagles' end is a sports announcer's panic. The Evansville, Ind., College alumnus' last name is pronounced Bobble.

It didn't take teammates long to start calling him Bibbles Bobble.

The first time his name was used on the air, one lady phoned the radio station in disbelief.

"Is this really on the level?" she asked. "Do the Eagles really have a Bibbles Bobble?"

SAIGON, Indo-China (CP).—The Roman Catholic Church in the Orient is preparing to tolerate a mild form of ancestor worship among its communicants.

It was learned from a high church official that this dispensation, expected soon, is intended to make it as easy as possible for Orientals to accept Christianity. The step is not as startling as it sounds. Its real effect is to bring the church's teaching in Asia into line with its practice in the West.

Ancestor worship will remain taboo if the spirit of an ancestor is worshipped as a god.

MORE LIKE REVERENCE

But in Indo-China and many other parts of the Orient the "worship" is more a reverence for the memory of ancestors and a respect for ancient family tradition.

Asiatics place flowers or burn incense or candles before pictures of their ancestors or near tombs or family scrolls.

One church authority said: "If the Christian in the West can revere the memory of his dead surely it is ridiculous to forbid ones and pray for their souls, the practice in the East."

Previously the Roman Catholic Church has accommodated itself to Confucianism, which is a code of social principles rather than a religion. It is the basis of family life in Korea, Japan, China and the countries of Southeast Asia. Other concessions made in the Orient by Rome include the right to hold services and administer the Sacraments in the local language.

Deer and other big game are said to thrive better on forage consumed from living plants rather than stock feeds because their digestive organs are better adapted to such coarse diets.

The population of the Americas when Columbus arrived is estimated by anthropologists to have been 8,400,000 in North America and 15,590,000 in the entire Western Hemisphere.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

There has fallen into my hands a most wondrous document, issued by the authority of no less a person than W. J. Turnbull, deputy postmaster-general for the government of Canada, an efficient and able administrator if there ever was one.

This document, distributed to postmasters across the land, is headed by the question:

"CAN YOU SAY 'NO' WITHOUT OFFENDING?"

Then, to explain its purpose further, this parenthetical phrase is added: "Some suggestions for the writing of better letters of refusal."

Although I am not a postmaster, and I doubt if many of the constituents are, I feel this document deserves wider circulation. It is a certain fact that, if more people could say "no" without offending, this would be a better world in which to live.

In fact, if more people could say "no," period, most of us would be better off.

There is room here for only a few highlights of the Deputy Postmaster-General's instructions on how to say "no." For instance:

"We must remember that few people... are familiar with the complicated procedures, acts and regulations governing... government business. This does not mean they are stupid or ill-informed and any suggestion in our letters that we think they are is bound to be resented."

Come, now, who would resent a little thing like THAT?

"We can all realize from our own experience that there is nothing so irritating as the impression that the refusal of a request we have made is permanent and irrevocable."

Solution: Employ only female postmasters (or postmistresses) whose "no" invariably means "maybe."

"If we react to the request along the lines of 'why, this stupid jerk, doesn't he know that this is contrary to Section blank of the Post Office Act?' it is almost impossible to prevent an impression of superiority or intolerance being conveyed in our letter."

You mean, the stupid jerk might think we think he's a stupid jerk?

"In conclusion, it is obviously the easiest thing in the world to say 'yes.' Being able to say 'no' and get acceptance is something which requires skill. This skill is worth learning since the degree of skill with which we do our present job has a lot to do with our chances for advancement. Let's all resolve, therefore, to improve our letters of refusal and to write to postal patrons in the way in which we ourselves would like to be written to."

As a postal patron of some consequence (I still buy air-mail stamps despite the fact that all first-class mail goes by air) I would like to assure the Deputy Postmaster-General that I am ready to co-operate.

I will resolve to write lots and lots of requests so that I may get lots and lots of lovely letters saying "no."

I realize that by so doing I will enable some struggling postmaster to get a chance for advancement, and maybe even a gold star, for the gracious way in which he says "no, you jerk."

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

Tenders for construction of a new physical training and recreation building at H.M.C.S. Naden must be filed by Sept. 30, it was announced Tuesday.

Luney Brothers and Hamilton Ltd., McKinty and Sons, Farmer Construction Ltd., and George H. Wheaton are among the Victoria firms that have obtained plans.

About 30 persons attended the first of a series of lectures on birds and bird lore at the Provincial Museum Tuesday. Charles Guiguet, museum biologist, is giving the lectures, which will include five field trips to study wintering water fowl.

The lectures are being held every Tuesday from 8 to 9:30 p.m. in the museum.

The provincial cabinet has authorized a $91,000 grant to St. Joseph's Hospital, Victoria, to go toward the cost of completing and equipping the institution's 128-bed addition.

The grant was approved by order-in-council Tuesday. This is in line with the former government's policy of donating one-third of the cost of such constructions.

Bertram H. Jones was fined $35 by Magistrate H. C. Hall in City Police Court today for careless driving. Jones was in collision with a 16-year-old cyclist on Douglas, near Princess Avenue. The boy suffered a fractured shoulder.

Support of Mayor Claude Harrison and city aldermen was sought by the Chamber of Commerce today in its fight for "more adequate" steamship service between Victoria and Vancouver.

George I. Warren, managing director of the chamber, stated in a letter received at City Hall that the proposed cut in service by the C.P.R. was "a retrograde step for Victoria."

City council's attention today was drawn to a protest petition signed by 500 persons in August, 1951, over requested rezoning of 620 Seaford Street for industrial purposes. Mrs. Gladys Baker, 249 Robert Street, wrote the city, in view of a request from owners of 620 Seaford, to expedite rezoning.

The condition of Henry A. Wilt of Port Renfrew, seriously injured when his car crashed against a pole at Colwood Corner Monday morning, was slightly improved today, it was reported by the Royal Jubilee Hospital. Wilt is now semi-conscious.

Three Vancouver Island men are among 83 officers and men leaving this month for service with R.C.A.F. units overseas. Wing Commander S. D. Turner and Flight Sergeant J. W. Hunter are listed as Victorians making the transfer. Aircraftman H. F. N. Fredholm of Nanaimo, is also going.

Some of the personnel will go by ship from Montreal or Quebec. The others will fly in service aircraft, leaving from Dorval, Quebec.

Chamber of Commerce has announced the appointment of the following chairmen to their respective committees:

M. A. Kent, former alderman, municipal amalgamation; Ald. P. B. Scurren, capital city financial assistance; A. de B. McPhillips, civic house and wages; C. E. G. Whitaker, town planning; Ald. F. G. Mulliner, fire halls and wages.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner will address the Oak Bay Social Credit Constituency Association tonight at 8 in the auditorium of Willows School. The meeting is open to the public.

Application for permission to build a new court on Gorge Road near Carrol Street was received at City Hall, Tuesday, from A. M. Tierle.

Companions of Court Victoria, No. 1004, Independent Order of Foresters, held a games night on Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Earle on Carey Road.

Nine-Headed Monster Stops Digger

When Corporal F. R. Jefferson, R.C.M.P., dug it up, he couldn't believe his eyes. He quit digging.

And speaking of eyes, how many would there be on a nine-headed potato like the one spudman Jefferson produced? Enough to plant next year's garden," he thinks.

Although they can't all be seen, there are actually nine tubers growing out of the same stalk and joined in an extraordinary fashion.

Earl Allen, business agent of Laborers' International Union Local 1033, announced today a meeting will be held Friday at 8 p.m. to consider a wage offer made by Victoria Builders' Exchange.

Negotiations began in March. Original request was for a 45-cent differential with carpenters. Meeting will be held at 602 Broughton Street.

Senior Naval Officers, Newly Posted, Both Won Decorations in Lost Destroyer

H.M.C.S. Skeena, the river class destroyer lost in a gale off Iceland in 1944, is a ship of vivid memories for the two of the three senior naval officers who will move to the Pacific Command late this year.

She won the D.S.C. for both Rear-Admiral James C. Hibbard, who succeeds Rear-Admiral W. B. Creery as flag officer; and for Capt. Kenneth L. Dyer, succeeding Commodore K. F. Adams as commander of naval barracks and depot at Esquimalt.

Rear-Admiral Hibbard, who also wears the bar to his

D.S.C., won it the hard way—under constant enemy action for 66 hours, in one of the heaviest U-boat attacks of the Second World War. He was captain of Skeena and senior officer of the Canadian escort group which tirelessly fought off continuous submarine attacks.

Capt. Dyer was also in command of Skeena when he won his decoration. Teaming up with the corvette Wetaskiwin, he directed a four-hour hunt which ended in the destruction of a submarine, in an action regarded as a classic example of teamwork in anti-submarine warfare.

Capt. Dyer's present command, the aircraft carrier Magnificent, played an outstanding role in the N.A.T.O.'s recent "Operation Mainbrace."

Capt. Duncan L. Raymond, who will take over command of H.M.C.S. Ontario—from Capt. E. P. Tisdall, is no stranger to the ship. Up till last June, he was executive officer, before becoming commander officer of H.M.C.S. Shearwater, the naval air establishment at Dartmouth.

Admiral Creery has been named vice-chief of naval staff, Ottawa; Commodore Adams, commanding officer, naval (reserve) divisions, Toronto; and Capt. Tisdall will become commanding officer of H.M.C.S. Stadacona, Halifax naval base.

Good Progress on City Curling Rink

Trusses are now being erected for the $145,000 Victoria curling rink, under construction on Quadra Street, near the corner of Pembroke. Good progress is being made and Victoria Curling Club officials hope to have the ring in operation in the first week of December.

The club, however, is still seeking to sell bonds to pay for the rink. Already more than $110,000 worth of debentures have been sold. (Times Photo.)

City Police Hunting Maniacal Car Thief

Knife-Wielding Vandal Haunts Parking Areas

A car thief with a maniacal, destructive streak, is the object of a widespread search by Victoria police.

The search which began a week ago grew in intensity today as the thief struck again, this time at a car owned by G. Coward, 929 North Park Street. He left the interior of the vehicle badly damaged after stealing a few articles.

A week ago a car belonging to Motor Cycle Sales, 2647 Douglas Street, which was parked at the rear of the business premises, was badly damaged in a similar manner.

The thief broke into the car with a knife, hacked away at the upholstery, leaving it in shreds. He then proceeded to break everything on the dashboard. Damage was estimated at about $500. The thief left empty handed in this case as there was nothing in the car to steal.

While police will not comment on the cases, it is believed the damage to the two cars was done by the same person.

The thief broke into the car by forcing a window. The despoiler then systematically began to damage the interior of the vehicle by slashing the upholstery. Then he tore up the floor boards, broke and damaged the dash board.

CARRIED OFF LOOT

He stole three flashlights, one blanket and a pair of gloves.

Police said they have never seen such wilful damage done to cars.

When the first case of car damage was reported last week, police believed it was a "spite job."

Solon Low Speaks Here Thursday

Solon E. Low, national leader of the Social Credit party, will be the main speaker at a Sacred rally in the lower ballroom of the Crystal Garden at 8 p.m. Thursday.

The Alberta M.P. arrived in Victoria this afternoon along with delegates to the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association who are touring Canada.

Local Sacred officials said the public is invited to the meeting. Several B.C. cabinet ministers are expected to attend.

OLD POST OFFICE RENOVATION FOR CUSTOMS STAFF DELAYED

Work of renovating the interior of the old Post Office Building here may not be started for some time.

General plans for remodeling the building are now being worked out in Ottawa. L. S. W. Wells, district resident architect, Vancouver, told the Times today.

The building will serve principally as Victoria's Customs House. The Customs and Excise Department presently occupies the second floor of the building. The main floor is vacant.

The food and drug inspector and the Canadian Government Annuities branch each have offices on the third floor and the Department of Defense Production has space on the fourth. They are the only other occupants of the building.

Other government branches which formerly used the building have moved into the new Federal Building.

Cross Appeal Arises From Police Assault

Crown Holds Sentence Too Lenient; But Alert Bay Man Fights Conviction

B.C. Court of Appeal was sitting today to hear a two-way appeal concerning Victor George Myers of Alert Bay, who was convicted and sentenced last May for assaulting two R.C.M.P. constables while they were engaged in the execution of their duties.

Myers, represented by John A. Sutherland, is appealing against conviction. The Crown, represented by J. Oswald Gill, is appealing sentence on grounds that the police court magistrate who tried the case was too lenient with the accused.

Myers was tried separately on two charges of assaulting the police officers.

For hitting Constable Harry Chorondy over the head with a rock, he was fined $175. Trial evidence showed this occurred on Alert Bay's main street.

For hitting Constable Earl T. Millan, after he had been arrested for striking Constable Chorondy, he was fined $75. The scuffle between Myers and Millan occurred on the porch of the police station.

Myers himself sustained injuries in the fight which ensued before he was subdued.

Evidence submitted in lower court showed Myers took exception to the police questioning a woman friend as to her means of livelihood.

His counsel is arguing that the police had no cause to question the woman, and were, therefore, not engaged in the lawful execution of their duties as stated in the charge.

First meeting of the new Pacific Great Eastern Railway board of directors will be held Oct. 1 in the office of Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

The meeting will be mainly a "familiarization party," but it is understood the directors will also get down to discussing the advisability of extending the P.G.E. into Vancouver, a long-standing issue.

New directors are Premier Bennett, Finance Minister Elmer Gaudet, Bernard Allen, retiring manager of the Canadian National Railways in Vancouver, and James Stewart, assistant deputy minister of railways (re-appointed).

For Mr. Allen, one of Canada's best-known railroaders, there will be little rest between his retirement from the C.N.R. and his new position with the government-owned railroad. He retires from the C.N.R. Sept. 30, and the first P.G.E. board meeting is the next day.

Mr. Stewart and Jack Kennedy, P.G.E. general manager, are now on an inspection tour of the railway and will report on conditions to the meeting.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—How old is the city of Halifax?—W. G. H.

A.—It was founded in 1749 and named after the second Earl of Halifax. It was incorporated in 1842.

Q.—Do oak loopers attack hemlock trees, and have oak trees any appeal to hemlock loopers?—J. B.

A.—Not normally. Though these insects are akin, they do not ordinarily inhabit the same regions. Forest insect investigators, however, have fed oak loopers on hemlock needles and hemlock loopers on oak leaves.

Q.—I have noticed that at nearly every place in Victoria where there are Venetian blinds they are left down 24 hours a day, shutting out God's health-giving light and creating gloom inside. How did this custom come about?—Mrs. R. M. W.

A.—They only seem from the outside to be "down" or closed. They can be set to let in all the daylight, reflected, without the glare of the sun.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest.

Extra Charge for 'Luxury Service,' M.S.A. Plan

The 200,000 subscribers for benefits under the Medical Services Association will pay for so-called "luxury" services.

The Canadian Medical Association in B.C., anxious to clear up what it considers a misunderstanding of the "extra billing" principle, has issued a statement of explanation.

"Since the start of the M.S.A.

there has been a growing number of recipients which has failed to keep the M.S.A. a low cost scheme," it is contended.

Originally it was intended the beneficiary should consult a general practitioner. But latterly, M.S.A. members have been going more and more frequently to the specialist.

"This form of care is naturally more expensive," the C.M.A.

points out. "We could raise the premium and allow anyone to see any specialist at any time or we could retain the original purpose of the M.S.A. and encourage the people to attend their general practitioner and retain the specialist only when the general practitioner needed help."

"That's what will be done. When a patient considers the help of a specialist is needed, he may consult one with the previous warning that he may be billed over and above his premium.

Doctors consider this move will discourage people who have raided the M.S.A. and who have the attitude "that having paid for the service they must get their money's worth and more out of it."

SHOPPING GUIDE

China Tea Set Patterned After Royal Bridal Gown

By PENNY SAVER

In large, distinct letters on a card is printed: "It's Elegant! It's Distinctive!"

And when you see the Royal Bridal Gown fine English bone china tea set, you've got to admit that it is exactly that—elegant and distinctive.

The delicate china is patterned, as the name infers, from the design of Queen Elizabeth's bridal gown.

Also on the card, and something I know you will be interested in, is: The exquisite bridal gown worn by H.R.H. Princess Elizabeth (now Queen Elizabeth) at her wedding is the inspiration for the Queen Anne fine English bone china pattern Royal Bridal Gown.

In the deep band of the embroidery is combined the elegance of small pink ribbon bows and the brilliance of sparkling diamonds. The floral centre depicts orchids which composed the Royal bouquet. They were grown and perfected in the beautiful garden of Lord Abernethy for a period of seven years in anticipation of the Royal wedding.

I always feel that when you know the background and origination of a china pattern it makes it doubly precious. And in the case of this china, it has a tradition which will go down in history. It could be your unique and treasured record of a Royal Wedding gown.

And to top it all off, this china is not expensive. Here is the price list—tea and after-dinner cups and saucers are both $1.75; five-inch plates, $1.25; six-inch, $1.45; seven-inch, $1.75; handi-lon bon dish, $1.75; assorted sweets, $1.45; teapot, $5.95; coffee pot, $5.95; cake plate, $2.50; and sugar and cream, $2.25. Or if you wish to buy the whole 21-piece set, it sells for $22.75.

You must admit that this is quite a bargain. To be able to get a delicately patterned set of china symbolizing a historic event at such a reasonable price is certainly out of the ordinary.

WHY GROW OLD?

Have a Few Spare Inches? Try These Four Exercises

Many women who are not actually overweight or simply have a few pounds too many wish to lose an inch or so from some one measurement. When individual direction is possible they are told to concentrate on a couple of exercises for that particular spot.

However, if you are the average woman who has put on a little weight, those new pounds are likely to show up in the waistline, the hips and the abdomen. Since the majority of women follow the same pattern in figure problems I am today outlining a daily routine which will take only 15 or 20 minutes of your time. I am including one exercise for dowager's hump, too.

1. Lie on your back with your legs straight and your arms resting on the floor overhead. Bend both knees up close to your abdomen and grasp the knees with the hands. Straighten legs and return arms and legs to starting position, simultaneously. Continue. This is for the abdomen. It has splendid results, too, in health. It is corrective to constipation.

2. Stand with your feet separated and your arms raised sideways, shoulder height. Bend to the left trying to touch the floor with your left hand. Raise the trunk and pull back as you swing across the centre. Bend the trunk to the right. Raise the trunk. Keep your knees stiff throughout this exercise and pull back as your trunk swings across the centre line of the body. This is a waist exercise.

3. Lie on the floor with your legs straight and your arms resting on the floor, extending straight out from your shoulders. Keep your shoulders and head and hips on the floor as you roll from side to side, going as far as possible in each direction. This is slimming to the hips and thighs and also gives the waist a twist.

4. Lie on the floor on your back with your legs straight and your arms resting on the floor, extending out from your shoulders. Palms face the ceiling. Lift your shoulders from the floor as high as you can but keep your head on the floor. Hold while you count to eight slowly. Return shoulders to the floor. Relax. Continue.

Even just these four exercises give you a fine routine. I think women are wise to add a bust firming exercise as they grow older.

If you would like to have my exercises for increasing the bust measurement, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 7, "Don't Have Round Shoulders and Flat Bust—Reverse!"

Wed Recently At Ceremony In St. John's

Canon George Biddle officiated at the recent ceremony in St. John's Anglican Church which united Patricia Larsen in marriage with William Hagel. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. G. Woolcock, Broughton Street, and Mr. Walter Larsen, Queen's Cove, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hagel, Golden Prairie, Sask.

Given in marriage by her stepfather, Mr. Woolcock, the bride was lovely in her gown of traditional white satin and lace, the bodice of lace with high neckline and long sleeves and full skirt of satin. A coronet of pearls held her full-length veil and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

She was attended by her mother, who wore an orchid net dress with bolero jacket, orchid flower headpiece and carried a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums.

George Townsend was the best man while Oliver Speed and Michael Surpel ushered.

A reception followed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. Carlow, 1222 Gladstone Avenue. Four generations of the bride's family were present at the wedding, including her grandmother, Mrs. R. Ludvison, and her great-grandmother, Mrs. G. McKenzie. Leaving for a wedding trip to Vancouver and Seattle the bride traveled in a cherry red suit, white shortie coat, red accessories and corsage of pink rosebuds.

Provincial Delegate

Mrs. J. L. Ford was appointed delegate to a semi-annual meeting in Vernon of I.O.D.E. Provincial Chapter, at recent meeting of Navy League Chapter, I.O.D.E. At the same meeting it was announced that three food parcels valued at $19.38 were sent overseas and that 70 nursery bags will be sent to children's hospitals. Among recent projects was a visit to D.V.A. Hospital and a subscription to the Geographical Magazine, which was presented to Central Junior High School. Plans are being made for a bursary tea to be held Saturday in Douglas Room, Hudson's Bay Company; a bingo tea in early October and a special penny sale meeting.

Here's How Not To Get Your Man

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, Ph.D.

No one, not even a man, doubts that a clever woman can snare any man she wants to get. But her tactics must be clever. That is why this young woman is making a dismal failure in her attempts to get a man.

(Q) "I'm 32. I like a man very much but I don't know how to get him. I have done everything in my power but haven't succeeded. My girl friend and I try to go to places where we will see him but it does no good. I even went so far as to call him one day and make believe my girl friend's phone was out of order and asked him to deliver an important message to her. I was at her house and wanted to get him over. But he said he was sick. Less than an hour later, we saw him leaving his house and he didn't look sick at all. Do you know any other tricks I might use to get him?"

(A) No. What's more you are making yourself cheap in his eyes. If you were in your teens instead of your 30's, your tactics would be crude enough but at your age they are positively infantile.

No man likes to be pursued so obviously. It makes him mad and he resents such behavior. Even if he had liked you 'n the beginning, by now you have killed any love or respect or friendship he might have had for you. Even teenage boys resent being pursued and they shun the girls who use such tactics.

The little tricks you are using are so obvious that any grown person could see through them. Take that matter of the telephone call. Any adult should know that all you would have had to do would be to tell the operator that your friend's phone was out of order and the line would have been fixed in a jiffy. Why should you ask a person you barely know to act as a messenger boy for you?

If it isn't too late, and I rather suspect it is, you might try being pleasant and agreeable when you meet this young man but don't use any tricks. Show him you can be dignified, sincere, and friendly without trying to get his scalp. If you can ever convince him that you are not pursuing him, he may start to pursue you.

If you have a problem about family or friend, ask Dr. Hurlock to help you. Write in care of this newspaper.

Catholic Women's League to Sponsor The Lourdes Parish 40th Anniversary

Oak Bay Catholic Women's League will celebrate the 40th anniversary of Our Lady of Lourdes' parish on October 1, in the parish hall. The church, built in 1912 to accommodate scattered parishioners of Oak Bay, the Willows, Uplands and part of Saanich, about 20 families at that time, is now serving several hundred families. An enlargement of the church was made some years later and a recreation hall has been added recently.

Mrs. E. E. Belton, president of the parish subdivision and her executive have arranged a bazaar, afternoon tea, and an evening of games and music from 2:30 to 10:30 p.m. Proceeds will assist in defraying expenses of new hall and laying out of the grounds.

Mrs. F. A. Fischer is general convener and in charge of the various booths: Baby clothes, Mesdames J. Ryan, H. Y. MacDonald, and G. Chambers; aprons, Mesdames C. N. Montague, G. Brady, and A. S. Cole; fancy work, Mesdames A. K. O'Shea, E. Flannagan, and Miss M. Flannagan; home cooking, Mesdames W. P. Jackman and J. J. Beesley; candy, Mesdames H. Spohn and Mrs. H. Zaluski; vegetables and plants, Mrs. A. S. Taylor; superfluities, Mesdames J. D. E. Boyde and D. N. Macmillan; bookstall, Mrs. A. El Lowman; religious articles, Mrs. V. J. Baines. The tea room will be convoked.

Well-Known Young Victorians Married Quietly Today

In a quiet ceremony in St. John's Anglican Church this afternoon, Miss Isabel Elizabeth Henley and Mr. George Norman Straith exchanged marriage vows. The ceremony was performed by Canon George Biddle, with only the immediate families present. The bride is the only daughter of Mrs. Charles S. Henley, 727 Moss Street, and the late Mr. Henley, and the groom the younger son of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Straith, 330 Denison Road. Mr. Douglas Henley came from West Vancouver to give his sister in marriage. The bride's cousin, Miss Mary-Louise Henley, Vancouver, was her attendant, and Mr. Donald Straith stood with his brother, as best man. Following a small reception for the family and immediate relatives at the home of the bride's mother, the young couple left by plane for New York to fly to London and the continent. Mr. Straith will combine a honeymoon with a buying trip for his firm. (Photo by Goertz.)

Why is a good breakfast for children so important?

Educational authorities say children who are given a proper breakfast come to school more alert and quicker to learn. Their general fitness and stamina also are better maintained during the morning school session. It is usually suggested that growing youngsters should have a vitamin-rich fruit juice, an occasional egg or bacon to supply protein and a good serving of a cooked cereal. The best cereal is naturally one that contains the whole grain.

Start them off
meal like this:

Here are two suggested breakfast menus approved by dietitians. Red River Cereal is recommended because it contains cracked wheat, whole flax (which acts as a mild regulator) and rye.

Half glass of fresh orange juice. Serving of Red River Cereal with cream or milk and sugar. Toast with butter or margarine. Cocoa or other milk drink.

½ medium size milk melon. Serving of Red River Cereal with cream or milk and sugar. Whole wheat or rye bread with marmalade. Glass of cold milk.

Three receptions at Government House this week mark visits to Victoria of distinguished guests from other parts of the world and Canada.

On Saturday afternoon Mrs. Clarence Wallace will be hostess at a tea-hour reception when guests will be the wives of delegates to the convention of the West Coast Technical Section of the Canadian Power Association to be held here.

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Wallace will receive delegates to the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association, who arrive in Victoria this afternoon, at a late-day party at Government House on Thursday. Among the distinguished visitors will be Mr. Rene Beaudoin, deputy Speaker of the House of Commons at Ottawa, and Mrs. Beaudoin; Mrs. Ellen L. Fairclough, M.P. of Ontario; the Hon. Senator Annabelle Rankin, Queensland, Australia, and Mrs. Hasan Mahmood, M.C.A., of Pakistan.

On Tuesday afternoon, His Honor and Mrs. Wallace entertained at a small after-five party for Brig. H. R. Mackeson, British secretary for overseas trade, and Mrs. Mackeson.

Executive members of the Victoria Authors' Association and the Victoria Women's Canadian Club met yesterday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Yardley, Tyndall Avenue, for an informal reception to honor Dr. Douglas Leechman and Mrs. Leechman. Dr. Leechman, a member of the staff of the National Museum of Canada and vice-president of the Canadian Authors' Association, was guest speaker at the Victoria Women's Canadian Club meeting yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Vera Scott, president of the local authors' association, and Mrs. Yardley received guests; Mrs. E. S. Hon. Ralph Chetwynd, minister of trade and industry, and Mrs. Chetwynd, entertained at a luncheon Tuesday in the main dining-room at the Empress Hotel to honor Brig. H. R. Mackeson, Britain's secretary of overseas trade, and Mrs. Mackeson. Other guests included Miss Y. Lovat Williams, London, Eng., a specialist in Canadian affairs at the United Kingdom Board of Trade, who accompanied the Mackesons to Victoria; Mr. Keith Jopson and Mr. Arthur Kimms of Vancouver; Mr. R. M. Allott, Brig. Mackeson's private secretary, and Mr. T. L. Sturgess, administrative assistant to the Department of Trade and Industry at the Parliament Buildings.

A shower was given recently by Miss Arline Ferguson, Burnside Road, to honor Miss Lois Nairne, bride-elect of this month. Gifts were concealed in an imitation trunk decorated in pink, white and silver and fresh asters, with miniature bridal party standing in front. The guest of honor, her mother, Mrs. M. Nairne, and Mrs. D. Hanley, mother of the groom-elect, were presented with corsages.

Refreshments were served from a table decorated with pink candles in tall glass holders and banked with fresh asters and centred with bride's cake.

Guests were Mesdames M. Nairne, J. Hanley Sr., J. Hanley, A. Provan, A. Smith, P. G. Gubbels, P. Sylvester, C. Hudson, R. Ferguson, Misses Eleanor Hanley, Margaret Hanley, Jean Provan, Barbara Smith, Beth Smith, Theodora Gubbels, Betty McPherson and Pat Thomas.

The annual Freshette Tea will be held at Victoria College on Saturday afternoon when second-year girls will welcome newcomers to the college. Miss Robin Maunsell, president of the Women's Undergraduate Society, and Miss Frances Appleton, secretary of the Alma Mater Society, are co-conveners of the affair, which will be opened by Miss Gladys Downes, professor of French. Mrs. W. H. Hickman and Mrs. Phoebe Noble will preside at the tea urns. Professors and their wives will be present to meet the first-year girls.

Three receptions at Government House this week mark visits to Victoria of distinguished guests from other parts of the world and Canada.

On Saturday afternoon Mrs. Clarence Wallace will be hostess at a tea-hour reception when guests will be the wives of delegates to the convention of the West Coast Technical Section of the Canadian Power Association to be held here.

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Wallace will receive delegates to the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association, who arrive in Victoria this afternoon, at a late-day party at Government House on Thursday. Among the distinguished visitors will be Mr. Rene Beaudoin, deputy Speaker of the House of Commons at Ottawa, and Mrs. Beaudoin; Mrs. Ellen L. Fairclough, M.P. of Ontario; the Hon. Senator Annabelle Rankin, Queensland, Australia, and Mrs. Hasan Mahmood, M.C.A., of Pakistan.

On Tuesday afternoon, His Honor and Mrs. Wallace entertained at a small after-five party for Brig. H. R. Mackeson, British secretary for overseas trade, and Mrs. Mackeson.

Executive members of the Victoria Authors' Association and the Victoria Women's Canadian Club met yesterday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Yardley, Tyndall Avenue, for an informal reception to honor Dr. Douglas Leechman and Mrs. Leechman. Dr. Leechman, a member of the staff of the National Museum of Canada and vice-president of the Canadian Authors' Association, was guest speaker at the Victoria Women's Canadian Club meeting yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Vera Scott, president of the local authors' association, and Mrs. Yardley received guests; Mrs. E. S. ## Canada Draws Praise From U.S. Labor Head

TORONTO, Sept. 24 (BUP).—James B. Carey, secretary-treasurer of the 6,000,000-member C.I.O., said Tuesday night that Canada is a country that has forcibly won the admiration of the American Labor movement.

Item by item, he listed for the Canadian Congress of Labor here, what it is the United States admires about Canada, mostly in terms of its Canada does not have compared to the U.S.

Canada's youthfulness and vigor reminds the U.S. "so very much of America's early pioneering days," he said. "We admire, too, your restlessness and willingness to experiment (the St. Lawrence waterway is an example); the sense and wisdom of not adopting a Taft-Hartley Act," the

CABINET CARS TO BE MARKED

Finance Minister Einar Gunderson said Tuesday government cars used by cabinet ministers will carry the same markings as those used by civil servants.

He was replying to a report civil servants were disturbed about rumors that the ministers were planning to ignore the car-marking order regarding the cars they used.

Marking of government-owned cars is aimed at curbing unauthorized use.

State Health Plan Needed Doctor Says

QUEBEC CITY, Sept. 24 (BUP).—The medical profession had a suggestion today "not to sulk" at socialized medicine but to form a working partnership with it.

Dr. Jean Baptiste Jobin, president of the 22nd annual Congress of French-Speaking Doctors and Surgeons of Canada, told the opening session Tuesday night that social medicine was needed by those who couldn't afford expensive present-day treatments.

"At the same time," he said, "the profession must not let itself be swallowed by the state."

Jobin said, "The state can, and even must, substitute itself to the individual in the domain of preventive medicine when the sickness or disease is of too long a duration, too expensive for the means of the patient, or when the patient has no means at all."

"But even here, both the state and the profession must respect those great principles which are at the very foundation of medical practice. The professional secret must be maintained, so too, the liberty of fixing the fees between the patient and doctor, the liberty of prescription of remedies and the freedom of the choice by the patient of his doctor," the Laval University professor declared.

More than 1,500 French speaking doctors from Canada, the United States and abroad gathered for the opening of the congress.

Nahas Challenges Egyptian Govt. To Oust Him as Head of Wafdists

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 24 (UP).—Mustapha El Nahas, veteran leader of the powerful Wafd party, challenged today government efforts to oust him from his position.

At the same time his party—Egypt's strongest political group—stood firmly behind him as it prepared to submit its membership list to the ministry of interior under the government's new anti-corruption program.

The 74-year-old former premier, whose cabinet was dismissed by ex-King Farouk after the Cairo riots last January, said no power on earth except the people could force him from the Wafd leadership.

Commenting on a demand by Vice Premier Soliman Hafez that he be excluded from the party's rolls, Nahas said:

"I have always considered myself as belonging to the people. My confidence in the people and the people's confidence in me throughout my political life has been my source of strength in every crisis."

"Until the end of my life I shall continue belonging to this faithful people. No power after God could force me out of this position except the people."

Reliable sources said earlier that "strong man" Premier Mohammed Naguib had ordered the Wafdists to kick out Nahas on the ground he abused his political power.

Suffocating "Hot Flashes" stopped or strikingly relieved—in doctors' tests!

Are you going through "change of life"—suffering the "hot flashes," nervous tension, irritability, weakness and other types of functionally caused distress of this difficult time?

Then...here's hope for you. In tests by doctors—on their own patients—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound gave relief from such distress. Complete or striking relief! In case after case!

Scientifically modern action! Surely you know that Lydia Pinkham's is scientifically modern in action! Surely you know what it has done for others! But do you know what it will do for you? Not if you haven't experienced the relief of tension, "hot flashes" and irritability it so often brings at such times!

Before another day has passed—try Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—or the new, improved Tablets (with added iron)—and discover how much easier your "change of life" may be!

NOTE: Lydia Pinkham's is grand, too, for functional cramps and "weak" feelings of menstruation! Millions of younger women, and girls, take it regularly—throughout the month—for this purpose!

Lydia Pinkham's action through sympathetic nervous system—relieves distress of the "hot flashes!"

(BB) PAULA (Odeon) — For the past 20 years beautiful Loretta Young has been starring satisfactorily in major roles. If she hasn't acquired stature as a great actress during that time she has at least managed to become an exceptionally competent one. And above all, and to be marvelled at, she has never lost that shimmering look of innocent vitality.

It is this combination of charm and acting ability that saves 'Paula' from being an unadulterated flop. At the hands of an actress of less ability the unbelievable story of a woman reaching for the love of a child she cannot have might have degenerated into trash.

The story: Paula, the wife of a university dean, wants a child badly but is unable to have one. Absorbed in her own misfortunes she is driving home one night when, in a traffic mix-up, she bumps into a small boy. The occupant of a truck, a crude vindictive rancher, drives off with the child to hospital and tells hospital and police authorities that the culprit had been a drunken driver which starts the search for a 'hit-and-run'.

Meanwhile, Paula, realizing the predicament she is in, innocent as it might be, is fearful of fighting the case out or even telling her husband as it might effect adversely his career—with the university.

Eventually through her doctor, Paula gets the youngster, an orphan, from the hospital into her home where she teaches him to talk again. The accident has robbed him of speech.

As is the case in such a story you sit there wondering why the wife in spite of everything, doesn't confess her innocent ac-

Truce Talks Phony Says Rocky; Red Offensive Might Be Better

OTTAWA, Sept. 24 (CP)—Perhaps the best thing that could happen in Korea would be an all-out Communist offensive, Brig. John M. Rockingham suggested Tuesday.

Such an assault might well take a savage beating. "It certainly would be held and it could send the Chinese commanders back to their leaders saying 'Ah nuts or its Chinese equivalent' about carrying on the war."

That way, said the original commander of Canada's 25th Brigade in Korea, lies the hope of a break in the prolonged Korean stalemate.

Now director-general of army training and slated to go to Britain's high-level Imperial Defense College this winter, Brig. Rockingham told Ottawa's Canadian Club that nobody now seriously thinks the Chinese intend to negotiate a truce.

The Chinese had no reason for wanting a truce. They were pinning down a huge Allied effort in planes, ships and men. Brig. Rockingham saw only disadvantages for the U.N. forces if they tried an all-out attack of their own. If it succeeded, they would find themselves with longer supply lines attacking an enemy whose own lines of supply and communications were getting shorter.

Several persons paid fines on charges of firearms violations.

Harry Sheldon Cooley and Raymond Prince were each fined $25 for carrying a firearm without the necessary permit. Oliver James Powell pleaded guilty on a similar charge and was remanded until next Tuesday for sentence.

For having a loaded firearm in a motor vehicle, John L. Bishop and Dale Proud each were fined $25.

Others fined were: William John Morrow, $10, for allowing wood to fall from a truck; Henry Stanley Muise, $25, for driving without a current year's driver's license; Frank Tony Bodenchuk, $10, for speeding; Robert F. Richardson, $50, for drinking liquor in a public place.

MANY FALSE ALARMS

BOSTON (UP)—Of the 15,217 fire alarms sounded in Boston last year, 2,301 were false. The fire department said the main cause of fires was careless smoking.

RADIO CLUB TO MEET

The Victoria Short Wave Club will hold a regular meeting at 8 p.m. Wednesday evening at 2500 Foul Bay Road.

Brig. Rockingham said the Chinese must be held in Korea if for no other reason than to discourage other aggressions, for the Communist pressure was on in the Far East.

No Permit to Light Fire; Fined $25

For lighting an outdoor fire without a permit at Spectacle Lake, Max Boas was fined $25 and $3 costs in R.C.M.P. court Tuesday.

Several persons paid fines on charges of firearms violations.

JOKE TO HER, NOT TO HUBBY

FORT FRANCES, Ont., Sept. 24 (CP)—Mrs. Louis G. Canrand, wife of Fort Frances' police chief, can see the funny side of a mistake which cost her an almost-new coat. But, it is doubtful if hubby can.

Her $45 shortie coat was sold for $1 at a recent church rummage sale. She had laid the coat aside while working.

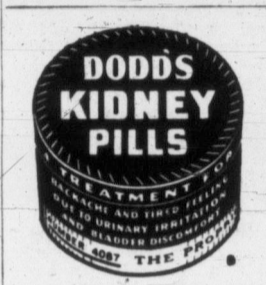

She has since advertised that she will reimburse the unidentified purchaser if the coat is returned.

Destroyer Haida Going to Korea

HALIFAX, Sept. 24 (CP)—H.M.C.S. Haida, the greatest scrapper in the Royal Canadian Navy during the Second World War, leaves Halifax Saturday to fight with United Nations naval forces in Korea.

The Tribal class destroyer is commanded by Commander Dunn Lantier of Montreal and carries a complement of nearly 280 officers and men.

The Haida will relieve H.M.C.S. Nootka, a sister ship commanded by Commander Richard M. Steel of Rothesay, N.B., and Halifax.

100 New Polio Cases but Worst Appears Over

EDMONTON, Sept. 24 (CP)—Three polio deaths and 100 cases were added Tuesday to Western Canada's 1952 toll but all indications were the disease was slackening off after setting records in three of the four western provinces.

Eighty-five of today's cases and all three deaths were in the weekly report issued by the Saskatchewan health department. Alberta had eight new cases, Manitoba four and British Columbia three.

Today's figures showed increases of 159 cases and seven deaths over a week ago. Again Saskatchewan's 85-3 formed the bulk of the increase. Manitoba, the only province that has not exceeded its previous annual high, had 64 cases in the last week. British Columbia's boost is 19 cases and one death and Alberta's 17 cases and three deaths. Saskatchewan's 85 cases in the last week compared with 113 in the previous week and the 1952 weekly high of 143 reported three weeks ago.

This year's totals with figures for the record years in brackets: Saskatchewan, 801 cases and 44 deaths (512 and 22 in 1937); Alberta, 469 cases and 39 deaths (380 and 28 in 1948); British Columbia, 341 cases and 22 deaths (256 and 12 in 1947), and Manitoba, 225 confirmed cases, 212 suspected cases and 15 deaths (1,011 and 20 in 1941).

CAR THEFTS DOWN

LINCOLN, Neb. (UP)—Your car is safer from theft in Lincoln than it used to be. Police said only 38 cars were stolen so far this year, compared with 87 during the same period in 1951. Only two had not been recovered this year.

CANADA DRY for lasting refreshment whenever you're thirsty

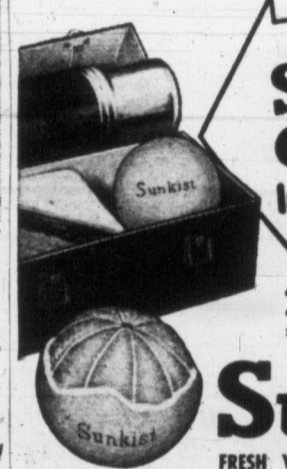

Canada's first jet engine production centre will be officially opened September 28 by Avro Canada Limited at nearby Malton, Defense Production Minister Howe is to be the main speaker.

The plant will produce some parts and be an assembly point for the Orenda Turbojet, designed, developed and put into mass production in this country. It was originally intended to power CF-100 jets but will also eventually be used in Sabre Jets sent to Europe.

Some 40 Canadian companies are involved in the production scheme organized by Avro.

Old Montreal Railway Depot To Disappear

MONTREAL (CP).—Bonaventure railway station, century-old landmark known to hundreds of thousands of travelers, is about to disappear from the Montreal scene.

Wrecking crews are demolishing the old Canadian National Railway station to allow extension of Windsor Street, one of Montreal's main thoroughfares.

Montrealers first called the terminus Bonaventure—literally "good adventure"—back in 1847 when it was little more than a woodshed serving wood-burning trains.

From Bonaventure the city watched its first sons go off to war. It welcomed such distinguished visitors as Queen Marie of Romania, Lloyd George, the King of Siam, Sarah Bernhardt, John L. Sullivan and President Howard Taft.

There have been three Bonaventure stations. The original woodshed was replaced by a rambling wooden structure in 1864 and that, in turn, was torn down in 1887 to make way for the present two-story, red-brick building.

Considered the latest in Victorian architecture, the station had an interior paneled in hand-carved oak, a terrazzo floor and stained glass windows imported from Italy.

A fire in 1916 gutted the interior and three towers on the roof were destroyed. When the damage was repaired, the towers were omitted.

The first time Montrealers bade troops good-bye there was in 1866 when a volunteer militia left by special train to meet the Fenian raiders from New York State. The last time troops passed en masse through the building was three years after the Second World War when they and their war brides were welcomed back.

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
BAR HARBOR, Me. (AP).—"Man's best friend is the mouse."

Visit the Jackson Memorial laboratory, one of the great United States science centres, and you'll agree with this observation by Dr. C. C. Little, the director.

For here mice are tools in the search for ways to prevent cancer, and for learning the laws that could make it possible to give humans new spare hearts, lungs, kidneys or other organs.

Here mice, like humans, are heir to chronic diseases such as diabetes and heart ailments. Mice may tell how often human diseases are due to constitutional or in-born effects, and how to delay or prevent human disasters from hereditary defects.

GENETIC FREAKS

Here is a hairless mouse that looks like a tiny rhinoceros, with a little horn growing from his head, with skin folded and scaly. His buddies include a dwarf, a waltzer doomed by its own heredity to spin constantly in circles, a piebald mouse, a kinky-tail mouse. They are genetic freaks, different because of a change in some gene or unity of heredity. Each type breeds true to its own kind, for study of that great mystery—the mechanism and whys of our inheritance.

Each year the Jackson Laboratory produces 1,000,000 mice. There are 50 different strains of pure-bred mice.

The laboratory supplies its surplus of 300,000 of these mice each year to several hundred medical schools and research centres.

Some scientists use these mice to test new anti-cancer drugs.

Stevenson 6-to-4 Favorite in London

LONDON, Sept. 24 (Reuters) — London book-makers, some of whom had stopped taking bets on the United States presidential election, today named Governor Adlai Stevenson, the Democrat candidate, as favorite, 6 to 4 odds.

Units From Korea May Go to Europe

OTTAWA, Sept. 24 (CP)—A complete brigade is expected to go to Germany next fall to replace the existing 27th Brigade and it is likely to be made up of units that first served in Korea.

Married members of the 27th will be leaving for home within the next two months and will be replaced by 1,900 men from Canada. Single men will stay overseas an extra year under the rotation terms announced when they sailed for Germany a year ago.

Yankees, Cleveland Both Win

BOSTON, Sept. 24 (AP)—Mickey Mantle tripled after Irv Noren doubled in the 10th inning to give the New York Yankees a protested 3-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox today in the opener of a double-header. Cleveland Indians defeated Chicago White Sox 6-10 behind Bob Lemon, to remain 1½ games back of the pace-setting Yankees.

Secret Strategy Talks in Europe

LONDON, Sept. 24 (AP) — U.S. envoys from five key European countries and state department chiefs began secret strategy talks here today on the East-West cold war. During the four-day parley, they are expected to file detailed reports on the progress of West Europe's program for containing Russian-led Communism.

Arcaro's Purse Winnings $2,001,121

NEW YORK, Sept. 24 (AP)—Eddie Arcaro became the first jockey in American racing history to win $2,000,000 in purse money in a single season when he booted home William G. Hellis Jr.'s Roman Fair today in the $6,000 tournament handicap at Belmont Park.

The victory, Arcaro's 166th of the year, was worth $3,940 and boosted the veteran jockey's 1952 purse total to $2,001,121.

Joe Walcott 'Unretired'

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24 (AP)—Jersey Joe Walcott "unretired" today 14 hours after losing his heavyweight boxing championship and announcing he was quitting the ring. In prepared statements, Walcott and manager Felix Boechico said they will go through with the fight until after the first of the year.

Robert House
Sale Approved
By HarrisonAppraisals Close
To Purchase Price

By ALLEN CAMPBELL

The by-law to sell Prince Robert House for $42,000 will get final passage at City Council meeting Thursday.

At a special meeting today aldermen unanimously gave first, second and third readings, after learning independent appraisers valued the property at $43,500 and $41,425.

Uneasy peace reigned at City Hall in the meantime.

The special meeting, over in a matter of minutes, came as a quiet anti-climax to the violent civic brawling of the past few days.

STILL GRUMBLES

While it disposed of Prince Robert House for $42,000, the meeting did not stem the tide of dissatisfaction at Mayor Claude Harrison and his methods, in some aldermanic quarters.

Corridors still hum with protests in addition to the public statements already issued.

Big round in the main bout is expected at a regular City Council meeting Thursday, when Ald. Waldo Skillings will formally challenge the mayor to resign his seat and test public feeling in the December civic election.

Once the papers for sale of Robert House are signed a Victoria syndicate buying it will be able to start demolition of the main building. Purchasers are Charles Dale, William Creed, Clyde Ballantyne and Donovan Dale.

"I said I would sign the papers if the procedure was safe," said the mayor today.

"The procedure is now safe. My action was taken simply to get things in order. If the majority want to sell, it is alright with me."

On advice of H. W. Davey, Q.C., outside legal counsel, the building was appraised by two firms. Ker & Stephenson valued building and site at $43,500; Rithet Consolidated Ltd., $41,425.

"What was the cost of appraisal?" queried Ald. Don Smith. No answer was immediately forthcoming but it was learned later the appraisals cost $62.75 and $59.63.

SEN. RICHARD NIXON
... may be relieved.Nixon Speech
'Life' SaverRepublican Chairman Sees Senator
Remaining Vice-President Choice

CLEVELAND, Sept. 24 (AP) — Republican National Chairman Arthur Summerfield said today, "I am certain that Senator Richard Nixon will remain the Republican candidate for vice-president."

Summerfield made this statement in reply to a reporter's question at a press conference.

He said he had talked with both General Eisenhower, the party's presidential candidate, and Nixon by telephone this morning.

Nixon, he said, will meet with Gen. Eisenhower at Wheeling, W.Va., tonight.

The face-to-face conference seemed almost certain to insure Nixon's retention on the Republican ticket.

The final say on whether Nixon is to remain as vice-presidential candidate remains with the Republican National Committee. Summerfield said he has asked the committee members for their opinions on the case.

Already, he said, at Washington Republican headquarters 20,000 telegrams were received by this morning, almost all in favor of retaining Nixon.

The telegrams still are pouring in at the Western Union capacity rate of 1,500 to 2,000 an hour, he said.

Eisenhower has also hinted that he is prepared to keep Nixon as his running mate.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 24 (AP) — Senator Richard M. Nixon carried his fight for political life to a country-wide audience Tuesday night, and then moved on to Monterey.

NAVY SHIFTS
WEST COAST'S
TOP OFFICERSHibbard Succeeds
As Creery Elevated

Shifts of top personnel in the Royal Canadian Navy's Pacific Command, announced today in Ottawa, will see three well-known senior officers moved from this coast.

1. Rear Admiral Wallace B. Creery, flag officer, Pacific Command, will go to Ottawa as vice chief of naval staff.

2. Commodore Kenneth F. Adams, commodore of barracks, H.M.C.S. Naden, will become commanding officer naval (reserve) divisions with headquarters in Toronto.

3. Capt. E. P. Tisdall, commanding officer, H.M.C.S. Ontario, will go to Halifax as commander of the naval barracks and depot there.

Admiral Creery, who has been Pacific Coast flag officer since August, 1950, will be succeeded by Rear Admiral James C. Hibbard, D.S.C. and Bar, now chief of naval personnel at naval headquarters, Ottawa.

Capt. Kenneth Dyer, D.S.C., commanding officer of the aircraft carrier Magnificent, which won two commendations for its work during "Operation Mainbrace," will take over command of R.C.N. barracks and depot at Esquimalt, and will be on the staff of the flag officer.

H.M.C.S. Ontario will be commanded by Capt. Duncan L. Raymond, who is now commanding officer of H.M.C.S. Shearwater, the naval air establishment at Dartmouth.

The changes, described by the Department of National Defense as "routine," were sparked by the appointment of Rear Admiral Harry G. DeWolf, now vice-chief of staff, as chairman of the Canadian joint staff in Ottawa.

H.M.C.S. Magnificent will be under command of Commodore H. S. Rayner, now secretary of the chiefs of staff committee at national defense headquarters.

The new appointments will become effective late this year. (See Photos, Story—Page 13)

Three Tyees
Make W.I.L.
All-Star Team

SPOKANE, Sept. 24 (AP).—Pennant-winning Victoria Tyees placed three players on the Western International League 1952 all-star team selected last week by the league's sportswriters and scorekeepers.

Cecil Garriott, Victoria playing manager, was named an all-star outfielder and also was selected as manager-of-the-year, president Robert Abel said.

The team: John Ritchey, Vancouver, catcher; Bob Greenwood, Tri-City, right-handed pitcher; Ben Lorino, Victoria, left-handed pitcher; Dick Adams, Wenatchee, first base; Hugh Luby, Salem, second base; Jim Clark, Victoria, shortstop; Dario Lodigiani, Yakima, third base; Garriott, Victoria, Mel Wasley and Eddie Murphy, both Spokane, outfield; Walt Poekay, Wenatchee, utility.

Nixon gave details of his own financial status and challenged his Democratic opponents, Governor Adlai Stevenson and Senator John J. Sparkman, do likewise. He hit Stevenson's reported fund for Illinois officials and Sparkman's employment of his wife.

Senators receive $50,000 annually for office and operational expenses over and above a $15,000 salary. Nixon did not give a breakdown of his $50,000 allowance.

He did not give the breakdown of expenditures of the controversial $18,235 fund in his talk. But he released an audit report from Price Waterhouse & Co., accountants, showing:

Total disbursement of $18,168.87, of which $5,102.15 went to Nixon directly, $12,876.72 to persons other than Nixon, from Nov. 15, 1950, to Aug. 20, 1952. The balance remaining was given as $66.13.

$3 Million Damage
As Fire Rips Elevator

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Sept. 24 (CP)—At least four men were killed and 14 injured in an explosion and fire that ripped Saskatchewan Pool Elevator No. 4A here at noon today. Three men were still missing.

Damage was unofficially estimated at $3,000,000 with the fire still burning in the shattered remains of the 8,000,000-bushel terminal late today.

The identified victims were: Steve Wasilka, 58; Pete Byc, 46, and Phillip Dorzek, 28, all of Port Arthur.

A watchman on the lake freighter S.S. Layton tied up alongside the terminal loading screening, was killed when crushed by a falling grain bin. His name was not immediately available.

The missing men were not identified.

The General Hospital admitted 14 persons with burns, bruises and broken bones.

Listed as seriously hurt were: Peter Holmquist, John Hordy, Robert Lamore and Harry Fellows.

Suffering from abrasions and burns were: Thomas Tinsley and Lindsay Currie.

Less seriously injured were: Andrew McClintock, Jack Paquette, Raymond York, Charles Rissanen, Alex Law, Robert Speak, Bert Blix, Wilfred Mitchum.

Rescue workers held out little hope that the three missing men could survive the heat and smoke of the fire that swept the workings after an explosion.

Wasilka died when struck by falling debris as he stood on a platform outside the terminal while returning from lunch. Byc was hurled out of the building onto the steamer.

Firemen who raced to the scene in response to a general alarm were hampered in fighting the flames by falling debris and heavy smoke.

Moist Air
Cuts Down
Fire Danger

Vancouver Island firefighters, aided by moist air that slowed raging fires to a "walk," today drove trails of bare earth around blazes that have kept them on 12-hour shifts for the last four days.

A fire threatening the Hillcrest slash at Lens Creek, south of Lake Cowichan, has been confined to 620 acres. Machinery has taken the back seat to Forest Service crews working with shovels, mattocks and hand saws who have controlled the south and east flanks of the fire.

Some 200 men are now cutting trails toward a junction on the north side of the fire.

Men on foot are now able to cut hand trails around the fire threatening timber on Sugarloaf Mountain in the Copper Canyon operation of MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd.

The fire, burning on 2,000 acres of slash and green timber, was reported quiet today, although 550 men, eight bulldozers, and 28 pumps are still at work tightening their hold on the smouldering area.

Suppression crews from the Langford ranger station were consolidating their guards on a 50-acre fire near Glen Lake.

SACRIFICE TO PRUDERY

Once a Girl, Scot
Doctor to Wed Soon

ALFORD, Aberdeenshire, Sept. 24—Dr. Ewan Forbes-Semphill, officially "sister" of Lord Semphill until a few days ago, is in love and wants to marry. Soon he will announce his engagement to an Aberdeen woman. The former "Dr. Elizabeth" has already revealed to the world that she is now a man and wishes to be known as such—in fact, as "Dr. Ewan Forbes-Semphill."

"I don't know when the marriage will take place," he said. "But it is quite clear we cannot be married at once. It would be like marriage following too soon on birth. Somehow it doesn't seem right. That is why everything has now come to a head, changing my name and so forth."

Dr. Forbes-Semphill was speaking in his trim surgery at Alford just before his patients were due to arrive. "I am happy to speak to you freely and to give you the full details. Naturally, I am looking forward to my marriage very much. For very special reasons I can't give you my future wife's name."

Dr. Forbes-Semphill is not the least bit embarrassed or sensitive about the fuss which his change of name—and of sex—has caused throughout the world. With complete candor Dr. Forbes-Semphill told his extraordinary story.

"It has been a ghastly mistake. I was carelessly registered as a girl in the first place, but, of course, that was 40 years ago. I am sure I was more masculine than feminine, right from the start. And this is what I've had to fight against all these years—till now. The doctors in those days were mistaken, too. I have been sacrificed to prudery and the horror which our parents had about sex. I was sacrificed to fear—what was I the neighbor's future, to my new life."
